

Table of Contents

Foreword	vii
Series Foreword	ix
Acknowledgements	xi
About the Contributors	xix

The Methodology of Constitutional Theory – Introduction	1
Dimitrios Kyritsis and Stuart Lakin

I. Background	1
II. The Scope of the Volume	4
III. The Chapters and Thematic Groupings	4
A. Self-Understandings	5
B. How Do Facts Matter?	6
C. Morality	8
D. Social Theory	10
E. Comparisons	12
F. Administrative Law	13

SELF-UNDERSTANDINGS

1. The Significance of the Common Understanding in Legal Theory	17
NW Barber

I. Adherence to the Common Understanding	18
A. The Nature of the Common Understanding	19
B. The Invocation of the Common Understanding in Legal Theory	21
II. Paying Attention to the Common Understanding	25
A. An Argument from Intelligibility	26
B. An Argument from the Constitution of Social Institutions	26
C. An Argument from the Wisdom of Crowds	27
III. The Limitations of the Common Understanding	29
A. Where the Common Understanding is Inconclusive	29
B. Where the Common Understanding is Clear	32
IV. Conclusion	39

2. In Defence of Traditional Methodologies	41
Jeffrey Goldsworthy

I. Introduction	41
-----------------------	----

II.	The Orthodox Understanding.....	42
A.	Common Law.....	42
B.	Written Constitutions, Legislative Supremacy and Statutory Interpretation.....	43
III.	Judicial Pragmatism.....	48
IV.	Confusion between the Common Law and Other Kinds of Law	51
V.	Constitution-making by Judges	55
VI.	Legal Philosophy	58
VII.	Parliamentary Sovereignty Today.....	63
3.	Constitutional Methodology and Brexit: Adopting a Model-Theoretic Approach	71
	Alison L Young
I.	Defining Model-Theoretic Approaches.....	73
II.	What is Distinctive about a Model-Theoretic Approach to Constitutional Theory?.....	78
III.	Why Adopt a Model-Theoretic Approach to Constitutional Theory?.....	81
IV.	Brexit and Parliamentary Sovereignty	89
V.	Conclusion	98

HOW DO FACTS MATTER?

4.	Slaying the Misshapen Monster: The Case for Constitutional Heuristics	103
	TT Arvind and Lindsay Stirton
I.	Introduction	103
II.	Facts, Theories and Traditions: Making the Constitutional World.....	106
A.	The Social Epistemology of Constitutional Theory	106
B.	Taking Facts Seriously	107
C.	Continuity and the Ascription of Deontic Power	108
D.	Core and Canon in Constitutional Theory	111
III.	A Methodology for Constitutional Theory.....	114
A.	A Taxonomy of Constitutional World-Views.....	114
B.	The Constitution as a Shield	116
C.	The Constitution as the Cornerstone of Social and Political Life	117
D.	The Constitution as a Rulebook.....	118
E.	The Constitution as a Truce.....	121
IV.	Heuristics and the Limits of Rhetoric.....	122
A.	Understanding the Impasse	123
B.	From Rhetoric to Heuristics: Towards a Resolution	125
V.	Conclusion	128

5. Why Common Law Constitutionalism is Correct (If It Is)	131
Stuart Lakin
I. Introduction	131
II. Two Accounts of the British Constitution.....	132
A. Goldsworthy's Orthodoxy (GO)	132
B. Allan's Common Law Constitutionalism (CLC)	133
C. Are GO and CLC Commensurable?	134
D. The Motivating Question.....	140
III. What Makes GO or CLC Correct?	142
IV. GO and CLC as Rival Interpretations of British Constitutional Practice.....	147
V. Conclusion	152
6. Methodological Pluralism and Modern Administrative Law	153
Sarah Nason
I. Subordinating Administrative Law to Constitutional Law	154
II. New Methods of Administrative Law Theory.....	159
A. Administrative Law and Socio-Legal Methods.....	159
B. The Social Construction of Law: Facts and Values.....	162
C. The Plurality of Administrative Law Values and Methods.....	166
D. Doctrine and Theory	168
E. Specialist and Generalist Administrative Law, Functionalism and Content Analysis	171
F. Computer Science Methods	173
III. Challenges and Opportunities of Methodological Pluralism in Administrative Law.....	175

MORALITY

7. The Constitution of Legal Authority	179
David Dyzenhaus
I. Hart on the Constitution of Authority.....	181
II. Approaching Natural Law?	185
III. The Legal Man vs. the Legal Subject	191
IV. Acceptance, Legitimacy, and the Social Contract.....	203
8. Constitutional Law as Legitimacy-Enhancer	211
Dimitrios Kyritsis
I. Introduction	211
II. Moral Force and Settlement	213
III. Legitimacy vs. Justice.....	216
A. Legitimacy as Assurance.....	216
B. Assurance and Disagreement	220
C. Constitutionalism of Fear?.....	222

IV.	Two Moralised Methodologies for Constitutional Theory	225
A.	Constitutions as the Moral Footprints of Settlement	225
B.	Assurance vs Moral Construction.....	228
V.	Conclusion.....	231
9.	A Positivist and Political Approach to Public Law	233
	Michael Gordon
I.	Introduction.....	233
II.	A Basis for Positivist and Political Public Law	234
A.	Loughlin's Theory of Public Law as Political Jurisprudence.....	235
B.	Political Jurisprudence and Normative Legal Positivism	237
III.	The Nature of Positivist and Political Public Law	241
A.	Defining a Positivist and Political Approach	241
B.	The Coherence of a Positivist and Political Approach – Some Potential Objections.....	243
IV.	The Value of a Positivist and Political Approach to Public Law	248
A.	A Positivist and Political Analytical Framework	248
B.	Explanation, Justification and Critique of Constitutional Structures	249
C.	Explanation, Justification and Critique of Constitutional Practice.....	251
D.	The Utility of Positivist and Political Public Law	253
V.	Conclusion.....	257

SOCIAL THEORY

10.	The Material Study of the Constitutional Order	261
	Marco Goldoni
I.	The Legal Theory of the Material Study	261
II.	The Political Theory of the Material Study	267
III.	Thematising the Constitutional Order as Legal Organisation	273
IV.	Case Study: Constitutional Change.....	278
V.	Conclusion.....	281
11.	The British Constitution as an Improvised Order	283
	David Howarth
I.	Introduction.....	283
II.	Spontaneous Order, Improvisation and Design.....	285
III.	Theoretical Implications	286
IV.	Interaction between Improvisation and Design	288
V.	The Conflictual Side of Improvisation.....	289
VI.	Assessing Improvisations	290
VII.	Distinguishing Improvisation from Non-improvisation.....	290
VIII.	Constitutional Improvisations.....	292
A.	Reforms Proposed Very Early in the Life of a Government.....	293
B.	Reforms Proposed in Chaotic Circumstances	296

IX.	Good or Bad Improvisations?	298
A.	Fixed-term Parliaments Act.....	299
B.	EU Referendum	300
C.	The 2005 Act: The Lord Chancellor, Judicial Appointments, and the Supreme Court.....	302
D.	The 2010 Act: Prerogatives, the Civil Service and Treaties	303
X.	Improvising Better.....	305
XI.	Improvisation and Constitutional Theory.....	306

COMPARISONS

12.	A Proposal for Defining and Classifying Systems of Constitutional Government	311
	Paul Yowell
I.	Introduction	311
II.	On Constitutional Government and its History	313
III.	The Characteristics of Constitutional Government	320
A.	The Elements of Constitutional Government	321
B.	On Judicial Enforcement and Bills of Rights	324
C.	Grimm's and Raz's Definitions of a Constitution.....	327
IV.	Types of Constitutional and Non-constitutional Government	329
A.	Types of Non-constitutional Government	329
B.	Types of Constitutional Government	333
V.	Conclusion	337
13.	The View from Nowhere in Constitutional Theory: A Methodological Inquiry	341
	Silvia Suteu
I.	Introduction	341
II.	The Comparative Turn in Constitutional Theory.....	342
A.	The Nature and Legitimacy of Constitutional Review	343
B.	The Use of Comparative Material in Constitutional Adjudication	346
III.	Constitutional Theory and Comparative Constitutional Change.....	348
A.	The Revival of Constituent Power Theory	349
B.	Constituent Power Theory and Unconstitutional Constitutional Amendments	353
IV.	Conclusion	357

ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

14.	Common Understandings of Administrative Law	361
	Matthew Lewans
I.	Introduction	361
II.	The Puzzle of Administrative Law	362

III.	Legality and Constitutional Formalism.....	364
IV.	Dicey on the Absence of Administrative Law	368
V.	Common Understandings of Administrative Law	372
A.	Constitutional Formalism and Administrative Lawlessness	373
B.	Liberty from Administrative Law	375
C.	Formal Equality Through Judicial Review	377
D.	Natural Justice and Administrative Law	379
VI.	Conclusion	382
15.	Methodology in Constitutional Theory: The Case of the Administrative State	383
	Kristen Rundle
I.	Introduction	383
II.	Constitutionalising the Administrative State: Delineating the Object of Inquiry	386
III.	Constitutionalising the Administrative State: The ‘Status’ Intervention	388
IV.	Constitutionalism and the Administrative State: Reflections from Australia	393
V.	Constitutional Theory Revisited? The Provocation of the Administrative State.....	398
VI.	Conclusion	401
	Index	405