

Contents

Acknowledgements	v
Table of Cases	xi
Table of Legislation	xix
Introduction	1
1 The Humanitarian Intervention Discourse: A Debate on the Edges of the Law	6
I. General Introduction	6
II. Historical Introduction	8
III. 'Kosovo' as an Illegal Operation	10
IV. 'A Thin Red Line' – The Argument of 'Near-Legality'	15
V. 'Contemporary Trends' and the Reform of Customary International Law	20
VI. Legal Inadequacy and 'Solidarist Intervention'	25
VII. 'A Custom More Honour'd in the Breach than in the Observance' – The Turn to Ethics	29
VIII. Illegal International Law Reform: Ethics in Action	32
IX. Necessity as the Mother of Invention	36
X. Taking Human Rights Seriously? From Just War to Neo-Imperialism	44
XI. Obscuring the Law	57
XII. The Responsibility to Protect	59
A. Explaining the Responsibility to Protect	59
B. Deconstructing the Responsibility to Protect	66
XIII. Conclusion	77
2 The Third Source of International Law	90
I. Introduction	90
II. Article 38(1) as the Wellspring of International Legal Sources	90
A. Some Preliminary Remarks on Treaty Interpretation	96
B. Use and Development of General Principles in Early International Arbitral Practice	99
III. General Principles of Law in the World Court	111
A. General Principles by the Front Door: An Unpopular Source of Law?	111
B. General Principles by the Back Door	116
IV. Conclusion	123

3 Equity as 'General Principles' in the Legal Systems of 'Civilised Nations'	126
I. Introduction: A Bayonet to Prick the Conscience	126
II. Legal Rigidity as the Crux of the Problem	129
A. Equity as a Panacea: The History of Equity in the Common Law	130
B. Common Law Equity and Legal Rigidity	146
III. Equity outside the English Common Law Model	147
A. The History of Equity outside the English Common Law	149
IV. The Common Core of Equity	196
V. Conclusion: Equity as a Hallmark of 'Civilised' Legal Systems	200
4 Equity in International Legal Practice	204
I. Introduction	204
II. Equitable General Principles in the Judgments of the World Court	206
A. Good Faith, Clean Hands and Equitable Maxims – The Meuse Case	209
B. Ubi ius, ubi remedium	215
C. 'Substance Over Form' and Equitable Flexibility	219
D. Estoppel – The Temple of Preah Vihear and Other Stories	223
E. Equity, General Principles and Human Rights	230
F. Maritime Delimitation – Equity Praeter Legem	234
III. Equity by Analogy – The Third Category of the Third Source	239
IV. Conclusion	249
5 A Framework for Equitable Humanitarian Intervention	252
I. Introduction	252
II. The Relationship between Equity, General Principles and Other Sources of International Law	253
A. General Principles, Treaty and Custom	254
B. General Principles and Human Rights Norms	258
C. General Principles and Ius Cogens	262
D. Unconstitutional Constitutional Amendments	268
E. The State (Ryan) v Lennon	272
III. The Third Exception? International Equity and Humanitarian Intervention	286
A. The Problem: The United Nations Charter and Human Rights	287

B. The Solution? Equity and General Principles of Law as Extraneous Norms	289
C. A Framework for Equitable Humanitarian Intervention	297
IV. Conclusion	327
Conclusion	333
I. Libya 2011	333
II. Syria 2012	343
III. To Be or Not To Be?	349
Bibliography	351
Index	371