

---

Contents

Foreword to the Revised Edition xi

Preface xiii

Chapter One

The Language of Photography 3

A Brief History of Photography 6

The Birth of Modern Photography 8

Traditions in Photography 10

Photography Today 17

Chapter Two

Camera Systems 21

Before You Buy a Camera 21

Deciding Which Camera to Buy 22

What a Camera Is and Does 23

Advanced Photo System (APS) Cameras 30

APS Film Cartridges 30

APS Camera Systems 31

Digital Cameras 33

35mm Cameras 35

35mm Rangefinder Cameras 36

Single-Lens Reflex (SLR) Cameras 38

Advantages and Limitations of 35mm

Cameras 41

35mm Cameras: Summing Up 44

Medium-Format Cameras 44

Twin-Lens Reflex (TLR) Cameras 45

Single-Lens Reflex (SLR) Cameras 46

Medium-Format Rangefinder Cameras 52

Large-Format Cameras 53

Large-Format Camera Types 55

General Considerations for Large-Format
Cameras 56

Using a Large-Format Camera 60

Large-Format Cameras: A Summary 62

Summing Up: It's Your Decision 64

Chapter Three

Lenses and Accessories 69

What a Lens Does 69

Lens Characteristics 70

What to Look For in a Lens 74

Focal Length 74

Lenses and Composition 83

Aperture and f-stops 86

Depth of Field 87

Combining Aperture Settings with Shutter

Speeds 91

Choosing an Appropriate Aperture/Shutter Speed

Combination 91

Photographic Accessories 95

Tripods 95

Lens Shades 97

Camera Cases and Bags 98

Miscellaneous Items 98

Caring For Your Equipment 102

Chapter Four

Black-and-White Film 105

The Composition of Film 105

Characteristics of Black-and-White Film 106

Film Speed 106

Grain Size 108

Negative Contrast 111

Resolving Power 115

How a Film Responds to Exposure and Development 115

How Black-and-White Films Respond to Colors 116

Choosing the Right Black-and-White Film for
Your Purpose 118

Using Filters in Black-and-White Photography 119

Contrast Filters 119

The Filter Factor	122
Special-Purpose Filters	123
Using Filters in Combination	126
Polaroid Films	126

Chapter Five

Visualization: The Art of Seeing a Photograph 131

Visualization of a Photograph	132
Characteristics of a Photograph	133
Visual versus Photographic Images	133
Improving Your Skill at Composition	135
Choosing What to Include in Your Photograph	137
Point of View	137
Framing the Image	139
Organizing the Image within the Frame	142
Choosing the Center(s) of Interest	142
Placing the Horizon Line	144
Establishing Near-Far Relationships	144
Time, Timing, and Visualization	146
Time of Day	146
The "Decisive Moment"	147
Duration of Exposure	149
Visualization of Tones	149
The Wratten #90 Viewing Filter: An Aid to Visualizing Tones	150
Polaroid Black-and-White Films as an Aid to Visualization	151
Comparing Color Transparencies and Black-and- White Prints	154
Visualizing Forms and Tones	154
Learning from Other People's Photographs	157
Practicing Photographic Seeing	160
Visualization: A Summation	161

Chapter Six

Determining Film Exposure 165

Light Meters	166
Setting Up and Reading a Light Meter	166
The "Middle-Gray" Standard	167
Types of Light Meters	168
Estimating Film Exposure	169
Using the Manufacturer's Guidelines	169
A Useful Rule of Thumb	169
Automatic Exposure Control	170
Using a Reflected-Light Meter	171
Reading Middle Gray with Your Light Meter	171
When Reflected-Light Readings Will Lead You Astray	172
A Closer Look at Print Tones:
The Zone System	173
Negative Densities and Print Tones	174
Reference Print Tones of Typical Subjects	178
Using a Tone Other Than Middle Gray As a Reference	178
Print Tones and the Use of a Spot Meter	180
Light Characteristics and Metering Problems	184
Types of Lighting and Their Effects	184
Subject Contrast and Exposure Considerations	188
Low-Contrast Subjects	188
High-Contrast Subjects	189
Preexposure	190
Bellows Extension Factor	191
Exposure with Flash	192
Estimating Exposure with Flash	193
Fill-in Flash	193
The Reciprocity Effect	194
Coupling Lighting Conditions with Development Times	198

Foreword to the Revised Edition

- Negative Expansion and Contraction:
    Practical Considerations 200
- Film Speed 201
- Using a Light Meter in the Field:
    Summing Up 202
- Chapter Seven
- Developing the Negative 205
- Film Development: An Overview 206
- Development Chemistry:
    General Considerations 206
- Choosing a Developer 206
- One-Shot Development or Replenishment? 209
- Developer Components 209
- The Time-and-Temperature Development
        Method 210
- Stop Bath 211
- Fixers 212
- Washing Aids 212
- Wetting Agents 213
- Sleeving and Storing Negatives 213
- Processing Roll Film 213
- Equipment 213
- Procedure for Developing Roll Film 219
- Processing Sheet Film 225
- Procedure for Developing Sheet Film 229
- Rotary Processing of Film 234
- Film Processing: A Summary 235
- Evaluating a Negative 237
- Chapter Eight
- Introduction to Basic Printing 243
- The Printing Process 244
- Equipment for Printing and Enlarging 245
- Photographic Papers 258
- Paper Stock 258
- Paper Surface 259
- Paper Weight 259
- Image Tone 262
- Paper Speed 262
- Paper Contrast Grades 262
- Contemporary Papers 263
- Chemicals for Printing 265
- Developer 265
- Stop Bath 265
- Fixer 268
- Washing Aid 268
- Toner 268
- Making a Proof Sheet 269
- Setting Up the Darkroom 269
- Procedure for Making a Proof Sheet 272
- Testing Your Safelights 278
- Chapter Nine
- Making a Fine Print 281
- Examining the Proof Sheet 281
- Procedure for Making an Enlargement 284
- Evaluating Proof Prints 287
- Making and Refining a Work Print 287
- Scaling the Contrast of the Printing Paper to the Contrast of the Negative 287
- Making a Fine Print 288
- Altering Selected Tones by Dodging and Burning 288
- Print Size 294
- Printmaking: A Detailed Example 296
- Toning the Print 300
- The Dry-Down Effect 301
- Factorial Development 301
- Variable-Contrast Printing 304
- Postdevelopment Correction Techniques 313
- Processing for Permanence 315
- The Fine Print: A Summary 316
- Caring For Your Prints 321
- Mounting and Matting Prints for Presentation 321
- Storing Mounted and Unmounted Prints 321
- Print Processing: A Summary 322

Chapter Ten

Color Photography 325

- The Role of Color in Photographs 326
  - Using Color Creatively 329
- Visualization in Color Photography 332
  - Choosing Films and Papers 332
- How Color Is Generated in Photographs 336
  - Color Reproduction 337
  - Color Emulsions 338
  - Color Balance 339
- Types of Color Films 343
  - Color Transparency Films 343
  - Color Negative Films 347
  - Chromogenic Black-and-White Film 349
  - Polaroid Color Films 351
- Preexposing Color Film 351

Chapter Eleven

Color Film Development and Printing 353

- Developing Color Negative Film 354
  - An Overview of the Development Chemistry 354
  - Getting Ready to Develop 354
  - Developing Color Negative Roll Film 355
  - Developing Color Negative Sheet Film 356
  - Developing Color Negative Film with the JOBO Processor 357
- Developing Color Transparency Film 358
  - Developing Color Transparencies 358
- Color Film Development: Summing Up 362
- Equipment for Color Printing 362
  - Color Printing Papers 362
  - Color Filters for Printing 364
  - Color Enlarger Heads 365

- Processing Equipment 366
- Color Analyzers 370
- Equipment for Judging Color Balance 371
- Miscellaneous Accessories 371
- Safety Equipment and Considerations 373

- Printing Color Negatives 373
  - Making an 8 x 10 Ektacolor Print 373
  - The Color "Ring-Around" 376
  - Using Your "Standard" Negative 376
  - Color Print Stability 378
  - Making a Black-and-White Print from a Color Negative 379
- Printing Color Transparencies 379
  - Ektachrome Processing 379
  - The Cibachrome Process 380
- Caring For and Displaying Color Prints 381
  - Mounting Color Prints 381
  - Displaying Color Prints 381

Chapter Twelve

Field Trips: Applying What You've Learned 383

- Searching for Photographic Themes 384
- Developing a Strategy 385
  - Understanding Your Subject 385
  - Approaching Your Subject 385
  - Equipment Considerations 385
  - Getting Started 386
- Mission San Xavier del Bac: A Photo Essay 387
- Typical Field Trips 395
- Summing Up 407

- Sources for Quotations by Ansel Adams 408
- Illustration Credits 410
- Index 411