

Contents

1984

Depopulating Bangladesh A brief History of the External Intervention into the Reproductive Behaviour of a Society	9
Time has come to Resist the Population Control Activities	29
Contraceptive Technology and Coercive Reorganisation of Society	35
State of Contraceptive Technology in Bangladesh	41
On the Question of Reproductive Right	51
Reproductive Relation and Political Economy A note on the nature of feminine subjectivity and history	58
Eugenic and Racist Premise of Reproductive Rights and Population Control	69
New Shift in Depopulating Strategy	79
Reproductive Rights : A critique from the Realities of Bangladeshi Women	89
Politics of "Population" as a number and "Ecology" as the Crisis of the Natural System	99
From Gender Gap to Gender Trap The Focus of Population Control Establishments on Women : Critical Remarks on Three Discourses	119
Population Clock and Census'91 in Bangladesh : Ticking Falsehood & Manipulating Numbers	130
The Population Clock on the desk of a Prime Minister	135
The Forced Sterilisation Programme in Bangladesh : Poor Women are the Victims	137
"Women" - the New Discovery of the United Nations	141
Women's Demands and Population Control	150
Resist Reduction of "Population" Issues into Women's Issues	153
"D" Is Lost in the Prepcom III of ICPD	158
Empowerment of women : Nairobi (1985) to Beijing (1995) Health Ignored and Environment Forgotten : Misleading Direction Towards Empowerment	164