

Contents

Foreword	page xiii
Acknowledgments	xv
Table of cases	xvii
Table of treaties	xxx
List of abbreviations	xxxix
Part 1 The Permanent Court of International Justice
1 A project of international justice	3
From arbitration to adjudication	3
The significance of the Permanent Court	14
From Buchrecht to practice	23
Part 2 International legal argument
2 The basis of international law	37
Conceptions of the state	37
The state as a national sovereign	39
The state as an international law subject	40
The state as an international co-sovereign	41
The national sovereign in international legal argument	57
Non liquet and Article 38 of the Statute	57
Custom and opinio juris	62
Conclusions on non liquet and opinio juris	68
Treaty and pacta sunt servanda	71
A definition of state	77
3 The double structure of international legal argument	79
The basic structure	79
The national principle of self-containedness	79

	From self-containedness to the international law of coexistence	80
	Separating state powers	83
	Supervening state powers: common, substantive standards	85
	The inherent vagueness of the international law of coexistence	88
	The dynamic structure	92
	The law of treaties	92
	Extending international law: the international law of cooperation and conceptions of the state	95
	Schools of treaty interpretation	98
	The openness of the international law of cooperation	105
	The double structure	106
	Recapitulation	106
	The national principle of self-containedness in treaty interpretation	109
	The international law of coexistence in treaty interpretation	113
	Problems of international legal argument	114
	The international community	115
Part 3	International legal argument in the Permanent Court of International Justice
4	Revisiting the Permanent Court	129
	Approach and material	129
	Structure of the remaining chapters	132
5	The foundational period, 1922-1924	134
	The Permanent Court as composed after the first general election	134
	The judges	134
	The preliminary session	140
	Outlook for the Permanent Court	145
	The Permanent Court and advisory opinions	147
	The International Labour Organization opinions	147
	The Nationality Decrees opinion	149
	The Eastern Carelia opinion	160
	Conclusions	174

	The Wimbledon and territorial sovereignty	175
	The case of a clear text	175
	The dissenting opinions	177
	The judgment	179
	Conclusions	184
	The basic structure of international legal argument: four more advisory opinions	186
	The Mavrommatis case and the Permanent Court's contentious jurisdiction	191
	The test for jurisdiction	191
	Applying the compromissory clause	197
	Conclusions	203
	Conclusions	206
6	An international lawyer's approach, 1925--1930	210
	President Huber	210
	Determining the Permanent Court's contentious jurisdiction	214
	The Mavrommatis case continued	214
	The Upper Silesia case	215
	The Mavrommatis case again	224
	Special agreements	226
	Conclusions	228
	The Mosul opinion and treaty interpretation	230
	Preliminary questions	230
	Principles of treaty interpretation	232
	The nature of the Council	240
	Judge Huber's presidency and the understanding of sovereignty	242
	The Lotus	247
	The Permanent Court meets the Buchrecht	247
	The division of the bench	251
	The majority's legal analysis	257
	Conclusions	261
	President Anzilotti and fluvial law	263
	The aftermath of The Lotus	263
	The Danube opinion	264
	The River Oder case	267
	Direct effect of treaty rules	270

National law and politics: new jurisdictional questions	273
Introduction	273
Judge Hughes, the Loans cases and Judge Fromageot	274
The Free Zones case, Judge Kellogg and Sir Cecil Hurst	284
Conclusions	292
 7 A national lawyer's approach, 1931-1940	300
The Permanent Court as composed after the second general election	300
President Adatci and other new judges	300
Modification of the Rules	305
Discontinuity	308
Self-restraint in treaty interpretation	316
The Customs Regime opinion	316
The Employment of Women opinion	324
Conclusions	330
Statehood, territory and sovereignty	332
The Free City of Danzig	332
The Memel Territory	339
The Eastern Greenland case	344
Conclusions	348
National law	348
President Hurst and his time	353
Discrimination and sovereignty	364
The Oscar Chinn case	364
The Albanian Minority Schools opinion	367
New judges and President Guerrero	368
Changes on the bench	368
The second Lighthouses case	372
The Meuse case	373
The Optional Clause	376
The Phosphates in Morocco case	376
The Electricity Company case	380
Judicial caution	382
Conclusions	384

Part 4 General conclusions

8	The legacy of the Permanent Court	393
	International law as a complementary legal system	393
	The national lawyer	398
	The international lawyer	400
	Appendix: List of Advisory Opinions, Judgments and Orders of the Permanent Court of International Justice	405
	Bibliography	425
	Index	469