

Contents

Abbreviations	xi
1. Law and force	1
Identification of the law
Effectiveness of the prohibition of the use of force
2. The prohibition of the use of force	29
Humanitarian intervention
Kosovo: a new role for NATO
Legality of Use of Force : the case before the International Court of Justice
The continuing debate
A right of pro-democratic intervention
Force and self-determination
3. Invitation and intervention: civil wars and the use of force	59
Recent application of the law on intervention in civil wars: Africa after the Cold War
The Nicaragua case
The right of a government to invite outside intervention
Classification of conflicts
Invitation by governments in practice
Intervention and protection of nationals
Intervention in response to prior foreign intervention
Chad
The identification of the government entitled to invite intervention
Forcible intervention to assist the opposition
Intervention and counter-intervention in Angola and Mozambique
The end of the Cold War
4. Self-defence	95
Introduction
The academic debate
The role of the Security Council
The duty to report to the Security Council
Self-defence as a temporary right
Security Council measures and self-defence
The scope of self-defence

Armed attack
Cross-border action by irregular forces
Turkey, Iraq and the Kurds
Iranian Oil Platforms case
Necessity and proportionality
Protection of nationals
Anticipatory self-defence before the 'Bush doctrine'
Conclusion
5. Collective self-defence	135
The Nicaragua case
The meaning of armed attack
The actions of armed bands and irregular forces
The supply of arms
Frontier incidents
The distinction between armed attack and frontier incident in the Nicaragua case
Criticism of the distinction between armed attack and frontier incident
Arguments for the distinction between armed attack and frontier incident
The distinction and the Definition of Aggression
Other limits on the right of collective self-defence
Third state interest?
The duty to report to the Security Council under Article 51
Conclusion
6. The use of force against terrorism: a new war for a new century	159
Previous practice
The impact of 9/11 on international law
The concept of armed attack after 9/11
Necessity and proportionality
Operation Enduring Freedom
Pre-emptive self-defence
How far has Operation Enduring Freedom been a turning point in the law on the use of force?
Israel, Syria and Lebanon after 9/11
The Bush Doctrine of pre-emptive self-defence
Iraq and pre-emptive self-defence
Allegations of links between Al Qaida and Saddam Hussein

Pre-emptive self-defence against the threat of Iraq's weapons of mass destruction
The next steps: Iran, North Korea, and Syria
Terrorist attacks after 9/11 and the international response
Intervention after Operation Enduring Freedom
Regime change
Conclusion
7. The UN and the use of force	195
The UN in the Cold War
Chapter VII action
The division of powers between the Security Council and the General Assembly
Peacekeeping during the Cold War
A New Legal Order? Chapter VII after the Cold War
Article 41: transformation?
Peacekeeping after the Cold War: Expansion and retreat
The end of Cold War conflicts
The start of new conflicts
Peacekeeping and enforcement action in Yugoslavia and Somalia: the blurring of traditional distinctions
The extension of peacekeeping
Yugoslavia
Somalia
Contemporaneous peacekeeping and enforcement operations
Lessons from Yugoslavia and Somalia: a return to traditional peacekeeping?
Rwanda: lessons learned?
The relation of UN peacekeeping and Chapter VII
Consent to peacekeeping
The use of force by peacekeeping operations
The Brahimi Report
Sierra Leone and the DRC
Conclusion
8. Security Council authorization for member states to use force	252
Express authorization
Member state operations in Africa (2003)
Kosovo
Afghanistan
Iraq (2003)
Implied authorization to use force

Iraq 1991–2002
Kosovo
Operation Iraqi Freedom (2003)
Security Council Resolution 1441
The ‘coalition’ case for action
Conclusion
9. Regional peacekeeping and enforcement action	282
Introduction
‘Regional arrangements and agencies’
The constitutional bases for regional peacekeeping
ECOWAS action in Liberia
ECOWAS action in Sierra Leone
The legality of regional action in terms of the UN Charter and general international law
ECOWAS action in Liberia (1990–97)
The legality of the operation under the UN Charter
Consent of the host state
The impartiality of ECOMOG
Enforcement action
ECOWAS cooperation with a UN force
Conclusion
The former USSR
Tajikistan
Abkhazia, Georgia
ECOWAS action in Sierra Leone
A reinterpretation of Article 53 of the UN Charter?
A regional right to use force to restore democratic government?
Côte d’Ivoire
Liberia (2003) and the Central African Republic
Security Council authorization of use of force by regional organizations
Conclusion
Index	329