

Contents

List of Contributors	vi
1. Introduction	1
Barry Gills and Shahid Qadir
2. The Collapse of Socialist Development in the Third World	4
Christopher Clapham
A working definition of socialism	4
The socialist Third World	7
The appeal of socialism	8
The First World: the impossibility of escape	10
The Second World: the failure of the example	11
The Third World: problems of socialist construction	12
Conclusion	15
3. Is There a Socialist Path to Socialism?	18
Adrian Leftwich
The classical Marxist tradition	18
Models of socialist development	21
The Leninist-Stalinist model in practice	25
Socialism: pioneer of capitalism?	26
The Leninist-Stalinist model in the Third World	27
Socialism and development in the Third World	30
Conclusion	32
4. The Future of Socialism	38
Samir Amin
Axioms of the liberal thesis	38
Understanding the so-called revolutions of the East	42
The future of socialism lies where?	47
A strategy of polycentrism	50
5. The International Political Economy and the Crisis of Socialism in the Third World	53
Mustapha Kamal Pasha
Introduction	53
Accumulation and Third World socialism	54
General crisis and Third World socialism	55
Differential impact	61
Conclusion	63

6. Prospects in the Periphery for National Accumulation and Liberation in the Wake of the Cold War and Debt Crisis	72
Ankie Hoogvelt
Debt and the deepening internationalisation of capital	73
Globalisation and deregulation	73
The IMF and the World Bank as bailiffs of international capital	75
National accumulation after the debt crisis	76
The historic defeat of socialism	77
Triumphant capitalism or triumphant imperialism?	78
Strategies of political liberation	81
7. Soviet and East European 'Socialism': What Went Wrong?	87
Andre Gunder Frank
Historical background in the world economy	88
Transition—from 'Second' to First or Third World?	92
World economic crisis and policy in Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union	93
The 'special' case of the Soviet Union	97
Conclusions and perspectives	104
8. Responses of the Afro-Marxist States: From Rigid Statism to a Mixed Economy	115
Kidane Mengisteab
Absence of prerequisites for socialist development	115
Reactions to the crisis	119
Implications of marketisation	121
Democratisation: its implications	123
9. The Radical Arab States as Populist-Corporatist Regimes	128
Nazih N. Ayubi
Expansion in the economic role of the state	129
State capitalism and populist-corporatism	133
State corporatism in comparative perspective	138
Withered socialism or whether socialism?	143
10. Social Origins of Economic Reform in Post-Revolutionary Third World Societies	149
Peter Utting
The reforms	150
Conventional explanations	154
The crisis	157
Contradictory class and state practices	160
Social structure, civil society and participation	163
Conclusion	171
11. The Crisis of Socialism in North Korea	177
Barry Gills
Introduction	177
The Korean revolution: socialism in one country	178
Juche socialism: self-reliance and structural limitations on growth	184
Foreign policy in the post-Cold War era	193
The economic crisis	201
The succession crisis and limited economic opening	205

12. Socialism in Vietnam: Crisis, Reform, Crisis	210
James Elliott
Economic failures	210
Economic development	212
Foreign investment	213
Economic and social problems	214
Political reforms	216
Political leadership	217
Democracy	217
Ideological change	220
Bureaucratic reforms	222
The future of socialism in Vietnam	223
Crisis, reform and crisis	224
 13. The Chinese Puzzle: Political Economy and the Reform of Stalinism	 227
Peter Nolan
Introduction	227
The consensus view on reform of the former centrally planned economies	227
The Chinese approach towards the political economy of reform	229
The results of China's reform path	234
Conclusion	237
 14. Cuba's Socialist Revolution: Last Rites or Rejuvenation?	 243
Peter Cross
'Castroika': Cuban-style perestroika	244
Economic policies	251
The rectification process	260
The meaning of 'socialism'	264
Socialist democracy	272
The new economic policies	274
External relations	276
Conclusion	280
 15. Conclusion: Reform, Adjustment and New Forms of Socialist Construction	 286
Barry Gills
The historical context; imperialism, development, and socialism and the balance of global forces	287
The new global agenda of democracy and capitalist development	292
The onset of crisis: internal and external causes	294
New forms of socialist construction	297
 Index	 301