

Table of Contents

Acknowledgements	v
Abbreviations	ix
Figures and Tables	xi
List of Cases	xiii

Introduction: Transnationalisation, Judicialisation and the Regulation of Religion	1
From the National to the Transnational Regulation of Religion	7
Religious Freedom Advocacy in a Transnational Legal Field.....	12
Trajectories of Legal Mobilisation: Empirical Observations.....	14
Contributions	16
Chapter Outline	17
 1. Fielding Religious Freedom Advocacy: A Sociological Approach to Transnational Legal Mobilisation	 20
Social Movements and Legal Mobilisation	22
A Shift of Perspective: Mobilisation in (Transnational) Legal Fields	29
Methods and Data.....	40
 2. Enacting the Liberal Script: Religious Transatlantic Networks and an Emerging Legal Field	 47
From the Shadow of National Sovereignty to the Formation of a Transnational Legal Field.....	49
Jehovah's Witnesses and Evangelicals: Early Pioneers of Religious Freedom Litigation.....	62
Enacting the Liberal Frame of Religious Freedom	77
 3. Constituting Identities: Sikhs between Symbolic Gains and Legal Marginalisation	 84
Diaspora Politics and Legal Mobilisation	87
'Jurimetrics' of the Challenger: Fitting the Legal Niche	99
 4. The Orthodoxy of the Powerful: Christians Fighting against Change	 113
Federating Symbolic Capital	117
Defending Incumbency	126
Inequalities and Symbolic Boundaries	135

5. Endogenous Change in the Transnational Field: Jehovah's Witnesses, Muslims and Christians' Recursive Mobilisation	148
Jehovah's Witnesses and the Expansion of Religious Freedoms.....	150
Muslims between Repeat Failure and Growing Activism	157
Conservative Christians' Pushback against Anti-Discrimination Norms.....	175
Conclusion: Faith in Rights or Right Faith?	194
Religious Freedom Mobilisation and the Governance of Religious Diversity	194
Towards a Field-Theoretical Understanding of Legal Mobilisation?.....	199
Religious Freedom quo vadis? Current Developments and Future Research Perspectives	201
Appendix	204
Bibliography	213
Index	229