

Contents

Preface	iii
List of Abbreviations	xi
Executive Summary	1
Introduction—East Asia in 2013	27
Chapter 1 Japan: New Development of National Security Policy	37
1. Establishment of the NSC and Formulation of the National Security Strategy.....	40
(1) A Security Policy Aimed at Progress.....	40
(2) Establishment of the NSC.....	41
(3) Establishment of the National Security Strategy.....	48
(4) Future Challenges for the National Security Strategy.....	53
2. The New NDPG: Building a Dynamic Joint Defense Force.....	55
(1) NDPG after the Cold War: Pursuit of Effectiveness.....	55
(2) Strengthening of Deterrent in Gray-zone Situations.....	58
(3) Capability Assessment Based on Joint Operations and Emphasis on Maritime and Air Superiority.....	62
(4) Building a Dynamic Joint Defense Force.....	64
Chapter 2 The Korean Peninsula: The Start of North Korea’s “New Strategic Line” and South Korea’s “Trust Diplomacy”	73
1. North Korea’s Dual Policy of Economic and Nuclear Development.....	76
(1) Seeking to Become a De Facto Nuclear Weapons State.....	76
(2) Efforts toward Becoming an “Economic Giant”.....	81
2. North Korea’s Combined Use of Provocation and Dialogue.....	87
(1) Taking an Assertive Stance after the Third Nuclear Test.....	87
(2) Stronger but Limited Pressure from China.....	89
(3) Resumption of Inter-Korean Dialogue.....	92

Contents

3. South Korea: Strengthening Deterrence against North Korea while Emphasizing Relations with the United States and China95

(1) G2 and Asia’s Paradox: President Park’s Foreign Policy.....95

(2) The “Kill Chain” and KAMD103

Chapter 3 China: The Xi-Li Administration Faces Rough Going.....111

1. China Faces Potential Causes of Grave Instability114

(1) Chinese Economic Growth Becomes Sluggish.....114

(2) Violence Explodes in Xinjiang Uygur Autonomous Region116

(3) Dismantling a Corrupt Ministry of Railways.....117

(4) Anticorruption Struggle Generates Intraparty Splits118

2. Chinese Diplomacy: A Deliberate Mixture of Hard and Soft121

(1) Diplomatic Policies Stressing “Core Interests”121

(2) The US and China: “A New Type of Major-Power Relations”123

(3) Neighboring Diplomacy Fraught with Contradictions.....125

3. Active Use of Military Might and Modernizing Equipment.....129

(1) New White Paper on Defense Released.....129

(2) Linking Foreign Policy and PLA Operations.....130

(3) Modernizing Equipment through Technology Transfer from Russia
.....132

4. China-Taiwan Relations: Developing Despite Little Trust.....135

(1) Increasingly Close Economic Relations and Personal Exchanges....135

(2) China-Taiwan Personnel Contacts: Rising to the Leadership Level?
.....138

(3) Taiwan’s Participation in the International Community and China’s
Reaction141

(4) Taiwan’s QDR Shows Rising Wariness toward China142

Chapter 4 Southeast Asia: South China Sea Grows More Complicated
.....145

1. South China Sea: ASEAN’s Responses Grow More Complex.....148

(1) The Philippines: Clearly Confronting China148

(2) Vietnam: Promoting Diversified Military Diplomacy153

(3) China-ASEAN COC Talks: Stagnation, But New Efforts Too158

2. Developments in the ADMM-Plus: Evolving Institutionalization161

3. Thailand’s Deep South and the Central Government: From Signs of Improvement to Renewed Chaos165

4. Myanmar: Sectarian Violence Surfaces.....168

Chapter 5 Australia: Bipartisan Consensus for Deeper Engagement in Asia 173

1. The 2013 Defence White Paper: The Indo-Pacific Concept.....176

 (1) Shifts in the World’s Economic and Strategic Centers of Gravity176

 (2) The US-China Relationship: The “Heart” of the Indo-Pacific.....178

 (3) Southeast Asia: Architectural and Geostrategic Center of the Indo-Pacific.....182

2. The 2013 Defence White Paper: Reinforcing Defence Engagement in the Indo-Pacific185

 (1) Differences with the 2009 Defence White Paper185

 (2) Rationale for Deeper “Defence Engagement” in the Indo-Pacific....188

 (3) The US-Australia Alliance: Advancing the “Force Posture Initiative”193

3. Unstable Domestic Politics and Leadership Changes196

 (1) Rise and Fall of the Second Rudd Government196

 (2) Inauguration of the Abbott Coalition Government198

 (3) Unstable Relations with Indonesia: The First Test of Abbott Diplomacy205

Chapter 6 Russia: Japan and Russia Hold First-ever “Two-Plus-Two” Meeting of Foreign and Defense Ministers.....209

1. Problems Faced by the Second Putin Administration.....212

 (1) President Putin’s Political Base Seen to be Weakening.....212

 (2) Limited Scope of Economic Policy Measures, and Pursuit of Development Projects in Russian Far East215

 (3) Strategic Concerns in the Arctic Region.....218

2. Russia’s Position within a Changing Global Community223

 (1) Russia Pursues a Strategic Approach to Foreign Policy in the Energy Sphere223

Contents

- (2) US-Russian Relations Fluctuate between Confrontation and Cooperation.....227
 - (3) Growing Fear of Security Risk Posed by China.....231
 - (4) Progress Seen in Dialogue between Russia and Japan on Security Issues.....236
- 3. Russian Military Aims to Enhance Combat Readiness.....241
 - (1) Snap Inspections Ordered with Goal of Further Enhancing Military Reform241
 - (2) Defense Spending against the Backdrop of Strict Fiscal Discipline246
 - (3) Russia Seeks to Strengthen Defense Industry and Boost Arms Exports251
- Chapter 7 The United States: Asia-Pacific Rebalancing Put to the Test ...255
 - 1. FY 2013 Sequestration and Defense Budget Cuts258
 - (1) Sequestration and Its Impact.....258
 - (2) “Strategic Choices and Management Review” and Future US Defense Structure.....262
 - 2. Asia-Pacific Rebalancing in the Second Obama Administration267
 - (1) Rebalancing amid Global Commitments.....267
 - (2) Characteristics of the Asia-Pacific Rebalance.....269
 - 3. Progress in the Asia-Pacific Rebalancing Strategy.....271
 - (1) Initiatives to Strengthen Relations with the Region’s Nations and ASEAN271
 - (2) Seeking to Control the Competitive Side of Relations with China...275
 - (3) Efforts to Bolster Military Presence in the Asia-Pacific279
- Chapter 8 Afghanistan and the Surrounding Region: Eyes Focused on the ISAF Withdrawal283
 - 1. The Thirteen Years of the Karzai Government285
 - (1) Continuing Difficulties in Domestic Governance.....285
 - (2) The Taliban and Other Insurgencies in Afghanistan and Pakistan....288
 - 2. Afghanistan’s Foreign Policy and the Destabilization of the Region292
 - (1) Transformation into an Independent Player?292

- (2) Direction of Domestic Politics in Pakistan and Its Tenuous Relationship with Afghanistan.....294
 - (3) Russia and post-Soviet Central Asia297
 - (4) Searching for Partners in the Vicinity: Afghanistan’s Relations with India, Iran, and China.....298
- 3. Efforts at Engagement by the International Community toward Stabilization.....301
 - (1) Maintenance of Security within Afghanistan after the ISAF Withdrawal301
 - (2) Support for the Reform of Afghanistan’s Military and Security Organs304
 - (3) Developments in the Peace Talks with the Taliban307
 - (4) Support for Reconstruction of the Civilian Sector in Afghanistan ...308
- 4. Year 2014: Afghanistan at the Crossroads.....310

Chapter 9 The Shale Revolution and the International Security Environment

-315
- 1. An Overview of the Shale Revolution.....318
 - (1) Revolution Stems from Technological Innovation in the United States318
 - (2) Why a “Revolution”?320
 - (3) Looking at the Shale Revolution from the Perspective of National Security322
- 2. How the Shale Revolution Stands at Present.....324
 - (1) Increase in Shale Oil Production in the United States324
 - (2) Increase in Shale Gas Production in the United States326
 - (3) Impact of Increased US Production of Shale Gas on Global Energy Market.....327
- 3. Prospects for the Further Development of the Shale Revolution328
 - (1) Likely Impact of Shale Oil Production on International Security Scene328
 - (2) Outlook for Shale Gas Production331
 - (3) Impact of Shale Revolution on International Relations.....332
 - (4) Constraints on the Production of Shale Gas335

Contents

4. US Energy Policy Amid the Shale Revolution337

 (1) Shift to an Active Energy Security Strategy.....337

 (2) The Economic Viability of LNG Exports339

 (3) The Impact of LNG Exports on International Relations.....341

 (4) Impact of Shale Revolution on US Energy Policy344

5. Likely Impact of Shale Revolution on US Relations with Russia, Europe, and East Asia346

 (1) Interdependence between Russia and Europe346

 (2) The Relative Importance of the European and East Asian Markets as Factors behind the Changes in Russia’s Energy Policy347

 (3) Responses of Russia and Europe to the Shale Revolution.....350

6. Impact of Shale Revolution on China’s Energy Policy.....353

 (1) China’s Energy Policy353

 (2) China’s Energy Security Policy Focuses on Expanding Domestic Production354

 (3) Impact of Shale Revolution on China’s Energy Security355

Commentaries

Future Challenges for the Reform of Japan’s Security Policy: Importance of the Intellectual Base47

Revision of the Guidelines65

Comprehensive Improvement of Response Capability against Ballistic Missile Threats68

Sino-South Korea Ties in the Humanities99

South Korea’s Arms Exports108

At the Third Plenum of the Eighteenth CPC Central Committee, Calls for State Security Committee and Reform of National Defense and Military.....134

Insurgency in Thailand’s Deep South: Background and Prolongation166

Australia’s Engagement with the Three Countries of Northeast Asia.....191

Australian Defence Posture Review.....195

Agreements reached at the first “Japan-Russia 2+2” meeting (November 2, 2013)238

ANSF and the Process of Transferring Security Authority.....306

Japan’s Response to the Shale Revolution359