

Contents

---

Introduction ix

1. American Indians in Historical Perspective	1
Discovery, Conquest, and Treaty-Making (1532–1828)	2
Removal and Relocation (1828–1887)	6
Allotment and Assimilation (1887–1928)	8
Reorganization and Self-Government (1928–1945)	12
Termination (1945–1961)	15
Self-Determination (1961–Present)	21
2. Federal Responsibility and Power over Indian Affairs	25
Roots of Federal Responsibility	25
The Sources of Federal Power	34
3. Indian Country	58
4. The Evolution of Tribal Governments	80
Traditional Forms of Tribal Government	82
Transitional Tribal Governments	89
Tribal Government in Modern Perspective	99
Tribal Government and Contemporary Problems	105
5. The Indian Judicial System	110
The Development of the Indian Court System	111
Tribal Judges	120
Tribal Courts and the 1968 Indian Civil Rights Act	126
Federal Review of Tribal Court Decisions	131
The Tribal Court System: An Assessment	136
6. The Role of Attorneys, Advocates, and Legal Interest Groups in the Indian System of Law	139
Indian Attorneys and American Society	140
Attorneys and Advocates in an Indian Setting	148
Indian Legal Services Attorneys	151
Indian Legal Interest Groups	155

7. The Criminal System of Justice in Indian Country	161
Federal Statutes and Criminal Law	162
Criminal Jurisdiction: Bringing Order to a Complex Maze	178
Law Enforcement and Criminal Prosecution	182
Special Problems in Law Enforcement	187
8. The Civil System of Justice in Indian Country	193
Traditional Civil Law	194
The Civil System in Operation	198
Immunity from State Encroachment	203
The Indian-State Conflict of Laws	209
9. Public Policy and the Legal Rights of Indians	216
The Civil Liberties of American Indians	217
American Indian Religious Freedom	230
The Right to Basic Governmental Services	239
Bibliographic References	247
Index of Cases	251
Index of Topics	255