

Content

Acknowledgements.....	11
1. Introduction	13
2. Three Conceptual Arrival Scenes: Comparative Vantage Point, Kinship and Knowledge, Kinship Matters.....	29
Scene 1: Knowledge-Management During Gamete Donation as Policy Problem in Britain and Germany	31
Scene 2: Kinship and Knowledge in Anthropology	41
Scene 3: What's the Matter with Kinship?	55
3. Fieldwork and Data Analysis.....	65
4. Knowing Kinship-by-Donation as Parents: Reflections and Histories.....	79
4.1 What is Kinship? Characteristic Tensions of Choice, (Corporeal) Continuity, and Love	81
4.2 Reproductive Histories and DI as a Technology of the Last Resort	90
5. Clinical Knowledge-Management and Beyond: How Kinship-by-Donation Becomes Constituted in Clinics.....	103
5.1 Local Fieldwork—Local Regulations	106

5.2 The Medical Trajectory of Knowing Kinship-by-Donation: The WHO standard, Viruses, and Excel Sheets.....	117
5.3 The Accessible Clinical/Institutional Trajectory of Knowing Kinship-by-Donation: Sealed Envelopes, Donor Files, and a National Registry.....	169
6. Familial Knowledge-Management: Emerging Canons and Parental Reflections.....	185
6.1 Normative Canons of Knowledge-Management.....	186
6.2 Familial Moralities of Knowledge-Management.....	219
7. Familial Knowledge-Management: Everyday Practices and Emerging Relations	229
7.1 Getting to Know the Donor: The Constitution of Administered Relations	231
7.2 Of Donors and Daddies, Fathers, (Co-)Mothers, Moms, and Mommies: Naming and Terminology Work	247
7.3 Telling the Child	257
7.4 Subversive Knowledge-Management and Wayward Relations	266
8. Familial Knowledge-Management: Confrontations and Tactics.....	293
8.1 Resemblance-Talk: “The old folks would always say ‘Just like Daddy’, no matter how the child looks like”	295
8.2 Medical History: “Not that we’re aware of”	311
8.3 Kinship Terminology: “Will they meet their real father?”	317
8.4 Not Conforming to the Reproductive Norm: “Is it true that Jonas has two moms?”	318
8.5 Biological Reproduction as a Confirmation of Heterosexual Love and Virility: “Well done, nice shot!”	322
8.6 The Child Talks: “If we have eggs in the kitchen, we also need sperm for Daddy”	326

9. Conclusions	331
9.1 National and Transnational Regulation and the Constitution of Kinship-by-Donation	333
9.2 Transparentization	337
9.3 Diverse Fields of Authoritative Knowledge-Production	344
9.4 Agency and Reflexive Expertise	346
Abbreviations	353
List of Figures.....	355
Bibliography.....	359
Index.....	379