PERMISSIONS	389
--------------------	------------

We wish to thank the following for helping us with this book:

Andre Schiff, a publisher of The New Press, whose idea this book was, and who inspired his usual audience as he pushed us first to start the book, and then to finish it.

Andy Heller, who edited the book.

Three libraries, which helped us more than they know: the Bethesda, Maryland, branch of the Montgomery County library system; the Library of Congress; the Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., branch of the Washington, D.C., library system; the Robert F. Kennedy Library of New York University, which has a splendid newspaper and magazine collection; and the Tamiment Collection there; and the New York Public Library at Fifth Avenue and Fortieth Street.

Angela Young, Catherine Serin, and Mary Connors, who helped us with research; and the following people, who gave suggestions, ideas, or even large barrels: Barbara Bolejack, Tom Bethell, Ed Donner, Catherine O'Leary, Mac Power, Thomas C. Peo, Pat and Tom Goh, Lindsay Goldstein, Don Krasner, Linda Latta, Walter Lundy, Michael Mandelberg, Robert K. Manoff, Anthony Mazzocchi, Gene Miller, Nick Salvatore, Peter Simmons, Matt Whit.

Our daughters, Catherine Serin and Sara Byles, who once again, have shown interest in and support for our work.

In the course of doing this book we have come in contact with many splendid journalists who make us proud of the journalism profession, and we thank them all.
