

CONTENTS

List of figures vii

List of contributors xi

Acknowledgements xiv

Introduction: New perspectives on early cinema history 1

Mario Slugan and Daniël Biltereyst

PART ONE CONCEPTS AND THEORIES 19

1 Animated pictures according to Georges Méliès: A sober and unpretentious remediation, or when Méliès took a stand against ... the cinema! 21

André Gaudreault

2 Attraction/narration/illustration: A third paradigm for early cinema 41

Valentine Robert

3 'The very act itself, even to the smack': Early cinema, presence and experience 65

Gert Jan Harkema

4 Lost love on a hot summer day: The absorptive experience of the first film show in Denmark 83

Casper Tybjerg

PART TWO APPROACHES, METHODS AND SOURCES 101

- 5 Revisiting the fiction/non-fiction distinction: Early cinema and the philosophy of imagination 103

Mario Slugan

- 6 Using Mediathread for gesture analysis in the cinema of attractions 131

Danae Kleida

- 7 Librettos as source material for film history: The case of early Russian cinema 145

Anna Kovalova

PART THREE AUDIENCES AND EXPERIENCES 165

- 8 Narrative cinema as a separate attraction: Archie L. Shepard's newspaper publicity 167

Paul S. Moore

- 9 Mapping Black moviegoing in Harlem, New York City, 1909–14 193

Agata Frymus

- 10 Attraction, narration, performance: A historical-pragmatic perspective on early cinema 213

Frank Kessler and Sabine Lenk

- 11 The other panicking audience: A New Cinema History approach to early cinemagoing, cinema fires, disasters and panics 227

Daniël Biltereyst

Bibliography 248

Index 270