

CONTENTS

Acknowledgements	vii
Introduction: Praising Wood, Caring for Wood, Splitting Wood – and a Historical Synthesis	1
1 Paths into the Thicket of History	13
1 The 'Wood Age'	14
2 Man and Forest: Stories and History	28
3 Wood and Historical Change	34
2 Middle Ages and Early Modern Period: Maximum Exploitation and the Beginnings of Sustainability	56
1 Medieval Society and the Limits of the Forest	57
2 Timber Becomes a Commodity	70
3 Large-Scale Firewood Consumption and the First Wave of Forest Ordinance	92
3 From the Apogee of the 'Wood Age' to the Industrial Revolution	135
1 Reform, Revolution and the Wood Economy	136
2 The 'Spectre of Shortage': Did the Timber Trade Face Catastrophe?	156
3 The Forest: From Living Space to Capital	172
4 Wood Consumers: Economies in the Home and Outside	205
5 Rollback	228

CONTENTS

4	Wood in the High Industrial Age: Degradation and Rebirth	239
1	The Forest as an Economic Factor	240
2	Technological Revolution in the Timber Industry	256
3	Fissile Material and Bonding Agent: Forest and Wood in the Eco-Age	276
5	Global Prospects and Contrasts	294
1	Lessons from Asia	295
2	Conflicts and (Ostensible) Solutions	318
3	Looking Back to the Future: Six Spotlights on the History of Forest and Wood	324
	Postscript: The Mystery of Certificates, or, Sustainable Forestry versus Greenwashing	327
	Wood Talk	330
	References and Bibliography	340
	Index	376