

Contents

Figures	vii
Contributors	xv
Introduction	I
Wu Hung and Katherine R. Tsiang

Part I The Religious Body

1	On Tomb Figurines: The Beginning of a Visual Tradition	13
	Wu Hung
2	Embodiments of Buddhist Texts in Early Medieval Chinese Visual Culture	49
	Katherine R. Tsiang
3	Of the True Body: The Famen Monastery Relics and Corporeal Transformation in Tang Imperial Culture	79
	Eugene Y. Wang

Part II Body Imagery and Self-representation

4	Fleshly Desires and Bodily Deprivations: The Somatic Dimensions of Xu Wei's Flower Paintings	121
	Kathleen M. Ryor

5	Illness, Disability, and Deformity in Seventeenth-Century Chinese Art Qianshen Bai	147
6.	Clothes Make the Man: Dress, Modernity, and Masculinity in China, ca. 1912–1937 Robert E. Harrist, Jr.	171

Part III Body-Face Interactions in Portraiture

7	The Face in Life and Death: Mimesis and Chinese Ancestor Portraits Jan Stuart	197
8	The Life and Death of the Image: Ghosts and Female Portraits in Sixteenth- and Seventeenth-Century Literature Judith T. Zeitlin	229
9	Essentially Chinese: The Chinese Portrait Subject in Nineteenth-Century Photography Roberta Wue	257

Part IV Performing the Body and Face

10	The Piping of Man Susan E. Nelson	283
11	The Kangxi Emperor's Brush-Traces: Calligraphy, Writing, and the Art of Imperial Authority Jonathan Hay	311
12	Phantom Theater, Disfigurement, and History in Song at Midnight Zhang Zhen	335

Reference Matter

	Notes	363
	Index	427