
People

9

People on the move

Appointments in the industry

Operation & management

14

Investing in Craig Goch

Refurbishing Craig Goch Dam

16

Small hydro for everyone

Technology to tap small hydropower across Central Asia

18

Business as usual

Recent activities across the US industry

Large dams

22

The Evolution of the Swedish Dams Industry

In the runup to the 91st ICOLD Annual Meeting to be held in Sweden this year, SwedCOLD gives us an insight into dam development across the country

28

Gathering in Gothenburg

Preview to ICOLD's 91st annual meeting on 11-15 June

32

Water security can determine dam attitudes

Exploring social awareness of and attitudes towards dams and reservoirs

34

Iconic discussions

Discussing the economic impacts of large dams

Investment

36

Investments and acquisitions

The hydropower industry has seen a number of acquisitions and investments this year as countries look for more sustainable ways to generate electricity

38

Scaling up investment in ocean energy

Ocean energy development projects have recently benefited from investment drives and expansions

Renewables integration

40

The future looks bright

Solar and hydro power projects look set to be embarking on a mutually beneficial relationship within the renewables industry

Repairs

42

The costs of repair

The costs to repair non-federal dams in the US could be as much as $157.5 billion, a new report from the Association of State Dam Safety Officials (ASDSO) has suggested

44

Fund, repair and modernise

Funding has been allocated to repair ageing water infrastructure in the US, while repair and rehabilitation work is underway on a number of projects across the globe