

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Introduction

i

Chapter 1

The Concept of Self-Regulation and the Internet	1
Introduction	1
1. General Concept and Characteristics	3
1.1. Defining Self-Regulation	3
1.2. Regulation and Regulatory Tools	6
1.3. Cost-Benefit Analysis	8
1.4. Taxonomy of Self-Regulation	10
1.5. Lessons from Other Industries	13
2. Internet Self-Regulation	14
2.1. The "Self" of Internet Self-Regulation	14
2.2. Justifications Behind Internet Self-Regulation	16
2.3. Self-Regulatory Tools	17
2.4. Comparative Practices	18
3. Conclusions and Recommendations	21
References	23
Internet Resources	24
Primary Sources	25
Legal Cases	27

Chapter 2

Internet Codes of Conduct	29
Introduction	29
1. Process and Methodology	32
1.1. Outside Participation and Consultation	33
1.2. Sources of Meaning: Illegal and Harmful Content	35
1.3. Evolutionary Nature of Codes	42
2. Comparative Analysis of Codes	44
2.1. Framework: The 4 X C Approach	44
2.2. Comparative Summary	66
3. Recommendations	67
References	72
Primary Sources	72

Chapter 3

Internet Filters and Rating Mechanisms as Self-Regulatory Tools	75
Introduction	75
1. Parental-Control Devices and New Technologies: Conceptual and Value Chain Approach	77
1.1. Filtering Typologies: A Continuum	77
1.2. Functional Elements of Filtering Systems	79
1.3. Overview of Possible Filter Locations along the Content Transmission Stream	81
2. Taking Stock: Current Models of Parental Control and Relevant Developments	82
2.1. Broadcast Filtering and Blocking Techniques: The Analogue to Digital Transition and Changing Possibilities for Child Protection	82
2.2. Internet Filtering Models	97
3. Models for a Converged World	113
3.1. The Elements of a Parental-Control System	113
3.2. Possible Models for a Parental-Control System	123
4. Summary and Conclusions	128
References	133

Chapter 4

Shifting Paradigms: Reconsidering Regulation of Digital Content	135
Introduction	135
The Underpinnings of the Paradigm Shift	136
The Regulatory Paradigm Shift	141
The Paradigm Shift Revisited	150
Conclusion: New Scarcities and New Intermediaries	157
References	159

Appendixes

Appendix 1. Model Code: A Toolkit for Planning	163
Appendix 2. Content Filters on the Internet	173
Appendix 3. Council Recommendation	187
Appendix 4. The "Layer Cake Model"	198

Index