

BRIEF CONTENTS

Detailed Contents v

Preface xii

Introduction Writers, Conversations, and Contexts 1

PART I Exploring the Writer's World 23

---

1 Reading as Conversation 25

2 Writing as Conversation 57

3 Reading and Writing Memoirs 90

Additional Readings 114

PART II Studying Everyday Conversations 169

---

4 Identifying Communities 171

5 Analyzing Everyday Conversations 200

6 Writing in Ethnographic Genres 240

Additional Readings 285

PART III Participating in Academic Conversations 341

---

7 Researching Academic Discourse Communities 343

8 Analyzing Classroom Conversations 371

9 Reporting Research in Academic Disciplines 407

Additional Readings 445

PART IV Strategies for Reading, Writing, and Research 497

---

Reading 498

Writing 505

Editing 518

Responding to Peers 526

Assessing Yourself 530

Preparing a Portfolio 534

Presenting and Reporting to a Group 535

Conducting Field Research 538

Conducting Library Research 541

Documenting Sources 552

Glossary 560

Bibliography 566

Credits 567

Index 568

DETAILED CONTENTS

Preface xii

INTRODUCTION

Writers, Conversations, and Contexts 1

---

Reading About Conversations and Writers 2

Reading as Conversation 2

Writing as Conversation 4

Looking Ahead 4

The Organization of This Book 4

The Classroom Community 6

The Course and the Syllabus 8

Bringing Prior Experience to Your Present Community 9

Reading: My Name, Sandra Cisneros 10

Observing Spoken Conversations 12

Shared Knowledge, Purpose, and Ways 14

The Concept of Discourse 17

Situation, Context, and Genre 20

Writing in Academic Genres: Informal Genres 21

PART I Exploring the Writer's World 23

---

CHAPTER 1

Reading as Conversation 25

---

Exploring the Reader's Role 26

The Reader as a Participant 26

Reading: Aria, Richard Rodriguez 28

Reading Analytically and Evaluatively 42

Observing Conversations in Writing Classrooms 45

Shared Knowledge 47

Shared Purpose 48

Shared Sense of How the Conversation Should Proceed 48

The Situation 49

Reflecting on How Context Shapes Reading 51

Writing in Academic Genres 54

The Essay in Response to a Reading 55

CHAPTER 2

Writing as Conversation 57

Reading a Writer's Reflections on Community and Competence 58

Reading: From Outside, In, Barbara Mellix 60

Exploring Spoken and Written Storytelling 69

Analyzing a Spoken Story 71

Discourse Competence in Writing 73

Reflecting on the Elements of Your Writer's Repertoire 78

Language 78

Style 82

Voice 84

Process 85

Writing in Academic Genres 88

CHAPTER 3

Reading and Writing Memoirs 90

Reflecting on Experiences with Language and Social Identity 91

Identity and Discourse 91

Negotiating New Social Identities 92

Reading Memoirs 94

Social Identities Involve Naming 94

Social Identities Are Shaped Through Dialogue and Difference 96

Writing Memoirs 97

Working Within the Genre of Memoir as a Writer 97

Reading the Memoir of Another College Writer 98

Reading: Karen's Memoir 99

What? Writing About Identity and Discourse 103

How? Using the Language and Style of a New Community 103

Why? Seeking New Understandings of Past Experiences 104

Reading and Comparing Memoirs as a Writer 105

Writing in a Public Genre: The Formal Memoir 109

Extending Your Inquiry 111

Additional Readings 114

Memoirs 114

From Lives on the Boundary, I Just Wanna Be Average, Mike Rose 114

Talking Back, bell hooks 121

From A Heartbreaking Work of Staggering Genius, Dave Eggers 126

Mother Tongue, Amy Tan 132

He Defies You Still: The Memoirs of a Sissy , Tommi Avicoli	137
From An American Childhood , Annie Dillard	143
Language Memoir , Sean Smith	148
Memoirs of an Indivisible Man , James R. Jean	151
Memoir , Dina Tsirelson	157
Memoir—Restructured , Dina Tsirelson	160
Essays in Academic Genres	163
The Birth of a New Writer , Bryan Gangemi	163
Alone Among the Others , Jake Wark	166

PART II      Studying Everyday Conversations      169

CHAPTER 4

Identifying Communities      171

Entering the World of a Short Story as a Reader	172
Entering "The River" as a Participatory Reader	172
Reading : The River , Flannery O'Connor	174
Reading "The River" Analytically	185
Analyzing Discourse Communities in Literature	187
The Shared What	188
The Shared How	189
Understanding Why	191
Reflecting on Your Prior Knowledge About Literature	193
The Author's Purposes	196
Writing in Academic Genres: Critical Analysis	198

CHAPTER 5

Analyzing Everyday Conversations      200

Doing Ethnographic Research	201
Observing Discourse Communities	201
Studying Everyday Conversations	203
Drawing on a Study of Conversations and Communities	208
Reading : Oral Traditions: Ways with Words, Part I: In Roadville , Shirley Brice Heath	210
Reading : Oral Traditions: Learning How to Talk Junk, Part II: In Trackton , Shirley Brice Heath	218
Reading : Oral Traditions: Part III: The Traditions of Story-telling , Shirley Brice Heath	228

Extending Your Research	232
Exploring Uses of Literacy	232
Connecting the Local and the Wider Culture	235
Writing in Academic Genres: The Comparison Essay	237

CHAPTER 6

Writing in Ethnographic Genres 240

---

Observing a Setting and the Ways People Interact There	241
Learning from an Ethnographic Study	247
Reading: How to Ask for a Drink , James Spradley and Brenda Mann	249
Observing and Analyzing Interactions	270
Seeing Repeated Routines and Rituals	272
Reading Ethnography from a Writer's Perspective	274
Looking at Spradley and Mann's Report	274
Comparing Ethnographic Studies	276
Using the Genres of Ethnographic Writing	278
Writing in an Academic Research Genre: The Ethnographic Report	279

Additional Readings 285

---

The Lesson , Toni Cade Bambara	285
The Informal Group , Paul Willis	292
From Coming of Age in New Jersey , Michael Moffatt	302
Good Craic , Edie Shillue	310
An Interview with the Writer of "Good Craic," Edie Shillue	314
DSP Continues , Pebely Vargas	317
Conversation Transcription of My Discourse Community , Pebely Vargas	320
Means and Motives , Jake M. Wark	323
Cambridgeport Apartment , Jake Wark	328
The Dragon Court World , Richard Corrente	332
Conversaton , Richard Corrente	337

P A R T III	Participating in Academic Conversations 341
--------------------	--

CHAPTER 7*Researching Academic Discourse Communities 343

Preparing to Study an Academic Setting 345

Reading an Academic Study 350

Reading: Introductory Physics: The Eric "Experiment," Sheila Tobias 352

Seeing from the Perspective of a Researcher 362

Generating Questions 363

Examining Course Materials 364

Reflecting Back on Personal Experiences as a Student 367

Writing in Academic Genres: The Persuasive Essay 369

CHAPTER 8*Analyzing Classroom Conversations 371

Observing a Classroom Moment 372

Drawing on a Reading 376

What Learners Bring 376

Reading: The Politics of Remediation, Mike Rose 378

The Ways of Academic Discourse Communities 388

Exploring Strategies for Taking a Critical Perspective 395

Repositioning Yourself as a Learner 395

Placing Your Current Work in a Larger Context 398

Taking a Critical Perspective 401

Writing in Academic Genres: The Critical Analysis of Research Data 405

CHAPTER 9*Reporting Research in Academic Disciplines 407

Approaching the Library as a Discourse Community 409

Entering the Library with a Purpose 409

Seeing the Shared What, Why, and How of the Library 411

Using Library Resources to Find the Conversations of a Field 414

Finding a Representative Conversation 417

Carrying Out a Library Research Project (Research Strand B) 419

Entering Academic Conversations 420

Entering the Conversation as a Reader 420

Entering the Conversation as a Writer 422

Entering the Conversation as a Researcher 425

- Exploring Style and Genre in Academic Writing 426
  - Seeing Differences in Spoken and Written Language 427
  - Considering Other Aspects of Style in Academic Writing 432
  - Genre in Academic Writing 434
- Writing in Academic Genres 437
  - Research Strand A: Research Report on an Academic Community 438
  - Research Strand B: Report on Library Research 441

Additional Readings 445

- Literacy, Discourse, and Linguistics: Introduction*, James Paul Gee 445
- Social Class and the Hidden Curriculum of Work*, Jean Anyon 454
- Music as a Life-Style*, Vanessa Ortega 477
- An Exciting Debate*, Sophia Kang 484
- Women in Science and Bio 112*, Juliette Houlne 489

P A R T IV	Strategies for Reading, Writing, and Research 497
-------------------	--

- Reading 498
  - Reflecting Before You Read 498
  - Glossing 499
  - Using a Double-Entry Notebook 502
  - Creating a Glossary of Terms/Working Concepts 504
  - Reading Within a Genre 504
- Writing 505
  - Generating Ideas 505
  - Planning, Drafting, and Shaping 507
  - Working with Quotations 512
  - Rereading and Revising 516
- Editing 518
  - Finding Mixed Varieties, Styles, and Forms in Your Writing 518
  - Editing for Style 524
  - Proofreading 525
- Responding to Peers 526
  - Reading and Listening 527
  - Peer Response Within a Genre 528
  - Peer Editing 528
  - Peer Proofreading 529
  - Responding to Peer Response as a Writer 529

Assessing Yourself	530
Assessing Essays and Reports	530
Assessing Your Own Developing Writing Process	531
Assessing Your Own Writing Skills	532
Preparing a Portfolio	534
Selecting and Organizing Your Writing	534
Presenting and Reporting to a Group	535
Preparing an Individual Oral Report	535
Preparing a Group Oral Report and/or a Written Overview of Work Members of a Group Have Done	536
Conducting Field Research	538
Keeping an Observation Notebook	538
Taping and Transcribing Conversations and Discussions	538
Interviewing	539
Carrying Out a Survey	540
Keeping a Folder of Documents, Artifacts, and Related Materials	541
Conducting Library Research	541
Deciding on a Topic	542
Finding Information	543
Gathering, Organizing, and Synthesizing Information	548
Working with Sources and Avoiding Plagiarism	548
Documenting Sources	552
MLA Style (Used in the Humanities)	553
APA Style (Used in the Social Sciences)	556
Glossary	560
Bibliography	566
Credits	567
Index	568