

Contents

List of figures	ix
Acknowledgements	x
Introduction	1
PART I
Meeting place in the epistemological gap	13
1 Context and cultural wounding: the relational sphere of life in place	15
PART II
Witnessing place violence and the intent to harm	49
2 An ethnography of place harm	51
PART III
Diagnosing place harm	95
3 Destruction and designification	97
4 Social disorder: toponymic erasure and the making of harmful places	124
5 Elemental erasure and ecological decline	153

PART IV

Reinstating kinship and healing place

6	Kincentric ecology and seeking an axiological return	193
---	--	-----

	Index	207
--	--------------	-----