

Contents

Contributors vii

Foreword xiii

Acknowledgements xix

Introduction 1

Section 1 The context of midwifery research and practice 13

1. Research and evidence in midwifery practice 15

Robina Aslam

2. The historical context of research in midwifery 35

Elisabeth Clark

3. Research and development in the NHS 55

Mary Renfrew and Michael Smith

4. Ethics and good practice 71

Hazel E McHaffie

5. Involving consumers in research 89

Elisabeth Buggins and Mary Nolan

6. Reviewing existing knowledge 103

Jennifer Hall and Sue Hawkins

7. Asking questions about practice and using appropriate research methods 125

Debra Bick

8. Words into action: disseminating and implementing the findings of research 139

Soo Downe

9. Developing standards for practice 155

Julie Wray and Angie Benbow

10. Education for best practice 171

M. Rose Allen

11. The reality of evidence-based practice in midwifery 185
Sue Proctor and Mary Renfrew
12. Developing research and evidence-based practice in midwifery – the next 20 years 195
Mary Renfrew and Sue Proctor
- Section 2 Core skills for research 203
13. Designing a research proposal 205
Ann Wraight
14. Applying to a local research ethics committee 215
Ray Field
15. Questionnaire design 225
Gillian Wright
16. Conducting interviews with individuals and groups 235
Sally Marchant and Natalie Kenney
17. Conducting participant and non-participant observational studies 243
Natalie Kenney and Sally Marchant
- Index 251