

Contents

Editor's Preface	ix
Acknowledgements	x
Map 1: The European empires in 1870	xi
Map 2: The Habsburg Empire, 1867–1918 (political)	xii
Map 3: Europe after the peace settlements of 1919	xiii
Map 4: The German mastery of Europe, 1942	xiv
Introduction	1
1 Nations and Nationalism: Ancient or Modern?	4
The conceptual debate	4
The modernist consensus	5
Pre-modern nationalism?: the minority view	15
(Pre-modern) nations and (modern) nationalism: connections or continuities?	18
Concluding observations	23
2 Towards the Mass Nation: Nationalism, Commemoration and Regionalism	27
The rise of the modern mass nation: nationalism and political culture	27
Worshipping the nation	38
The nation in the locality: nationalism and regionalism	45
3 Boundaries of National Belonging: Nationalism and the Minorities Question	50
Nationalism and the treatment of minorities before the First World War	52
State-building nationalism and the fate of national minorities between the wars	59
The Jewish minority and the emergence of Zionism	72

4	Homeland Nationalism Gone Wild: Nationalism and Fascism	80
	Rival interpretations of fascism	81
	Homeland nationalism and geopolitical turmoil	89
5	Universalism Reconsidered: Nationalism and its Critics	107
	Classic conservative critiques of nationalism	107
	Liberals and nationalism in practice	109
	Socialism and nationalism	112
	Conclusion	121
	Select Bibliography	124
	Appendix (Statistical tables)	137
	Index	142