

Contents

List of contributors	vii
Foreword	x
Acknowledgments	xiv
Introduction: An exploration of the shadowland of armed groups and international law Katharine Fortin and Ezequiel Heffes	1
1 Violence as redress: Armed groups, the right to rebellion and the resort to force for gross violations of human rights Luke Moffett	15
2 The politics of armed non-state groups and the codification of international humanitarian law Giovanni Mantilla	43
3 ‘The right to participate in hostilities’: Combatant privilege vs criminal responsibility for members of organised armed groups during international and domestic criminal trials Rogier Bartels	64
4 Proscription and group membership in counter-terrorism and armed conflict: Areas of tensions between criminal law and international humanitarian law Ilya Sobol and Gloria Gaggioli	91
5 Shadowland strategy: How non-state armed actors navigate between national laws and international law Hyeran Jo and Niels H. Appeldorn	120
6 Exploring the civilian and political institutions of armed non-state actors under IHL in an age of rebel governance Katharine Fortin	140

7	Rebel rulers and rules for rebels: Rebel governance and international law Alessandra Spadaro	167
8	From law-taking to law-making and law-adapting: Exploring non-state armed groups' normative efforts Ezequiel Heffes	191
9	The provision of healthcare by Islamist armed groups: Between sharia and international law Marta Furlan	212
10	De facto justice: Prosecution by non-state actors in armed conflict Helen Duffy	237
11	'Equals, but not Equals': The paradox of amnesties and armed groups in non-international armed conflict Annyssa Bellal	270
12	A matter of life and death: The impact of power-sharing on the legal position of armed groups Daniëlla Dam-de Jong	288
	Index	310