

Contents

I. CRITICAL REFLECTION ON THE THEORY OF SELFHOOD

INTRODUCTION // 3

The Phenomenon of Human Life as a Whole // 5

The Science of the Phenomenon of Human Life as a Whole // 8

1 THE PRIMORDIAL FACT OF HUMAN EXISTENCE // 13

1.1 The Idea or the Consciousness of Selfhood in Human Existence // 14

1.2 Communion as an Essential Element for Actual Self-consciousness // 16

1.3 The World as a Necessary Factor to Be Taken into Account in Relation to Self-consciousness in Human Existence // 20

1.4 Inadequate Views of the Fact of Human Existence in the World // 21

2 THE HUMAN SELF AS A SUBSTANCE EXISTING IN HISTORICAL TENSION WITH ITSELF AND WITH OTHER HUMAN SELVES // 25

2.1 The Human Self as Perduring Substance // 27

2.2 The Self as Existing through Its Own Proper Activities // 29

2.3 The Self in Its Historical Tension with Itself and with Other Selves // 31

2.4 The Self in Its Diverse Proper Activities // 33

2.5 The Historical Order of Selfhood as Distinct from Its Natural Order // 36

2.6 Exploring the Self in Its Distinction as Substance with Proper Activities of Intelligence and Will // 37

2.7 Alternative Views // 44

- 3 THE SUBSTANCE OF HUMAN SELFHOOD AS UNION OF BODY AND SOUL UNDERSTOOD AS COMPOSITE OF MATTER AND FORM // 45
 - 3.1 Framing the Mind/Body Problem regarding How We Conceive the Self in Its Substance Existing in Historical and Natural Tension // 46
 - 3.2 The Concept of Self as Union of Body and Soul in Its Substance // 48
 - 3.3 The Understanding of Self as a Composite of Matter and of Rational Soul as Form // 49
 - 3.4 The Dynamic of Matter as Being in Potency in the Third-Person Ontologies Rising Up to the First- and Second-Person Ontologies of Selves // 54
- 4 THE HUMAN SOUL AS TRULY, BUT NOT PURELY, SPIRITUAL IN ITS SUBSISTENCE // 57
 - 4.1 The Reflective Self-consciousness of the Human Soul as Truly, but Not Purely, Spiritual in Its Communion with Other Selves // 58
 - 4.2 The Conception of Intelligence and Free Will as Spiritual Powers of the Human Soul Contending with Sense and Emotional Consciousness in Reflective Self-consciousness // 61
 - 4.3 How We Come to Know the Human Soul as Subsistent in Itself and as Essentially Spiritual in Its Simple Identity in the Speculative Exercise of Our Intelligence and in the Practical Exercise of Our Free Will in the Historical Order // 64
 - 4.4 How the Spiritual Subsistence and Existence of the Self Relates to What We Already Know of the Human Soul as the Substantial Form of Its Matter in the Composite of Matter and Form // 71
 - 4.5 Terminology Pertaining to the First- and Second-Person Ontology of Selfhood as Surpassing Third-Person Ontology in Its Communicative Reflection // 74
- 5 THE ELEVATION OF HUMAN SELFHOOD IN ITS COMMUNAL EXISTENCE INTO A SPIRITUAL EXISTENCE IN ITS FIRST- AND SECOND-PERSON ONTOLOGY THROUGH THE EMPOWERMENT OF INTELLIGENCE AND FREE WILL // 79
 - 5.1 How the Human Self Is Constituted in Its Self-conscious Existence through a Dialectic of Mutual Recognition with Other Selves // 80
 - 5.2 How the Activities of Intelligence and Free Will Arise from Two Distinct Powers in the Spiritual Soul at Work in Mutual Recognition among Selves in the Historical Order // 91
 - 5.3 The Constitution of Cultures in the Historical Order of Spirit through the Exercise of Intelligence and Free Will in Mutual Recognition // 100

II. CRITICAL REFLECTION ON THE PRACTICE OF SELFHOOD

INTRODUCTION TO PART II // 135

The Phenomenon of Ethical Life // 136

The Science of Ethical Life as a Whole // 138

6 CONSCIENCE, RESPONSIBILITY, AND THE HUMAN GOOD AS SECOND PERFECTION OF SELFHOOD // 143

6.1 Conscience // 144

6.2 Responsibility // 147

6.3 The Human Good as Principle of Reasoning Conscientiously and Responsibly in Taking Action as Rational Human Beings // 150

7 FREEDOM AND THE NECESSITY OF RIGHT REASONING IN ETHICAL CONSCIOUSNESS // 153

7.1 Human Existence and Historical Consciousness // 154

7.2 The Necessity of Reasoning with Others in Historical Consciousness // 156

7.3 The Idea of the Communal Good as Principle in Ethical Reasoning // 160

7.4 Ethical Reasoning from the Communal Good // 161

7.5 The Necessity of Taking Counsel in Ethical Reasoning // 165

7.6 The Good as Object in the Taking of Counsel // 169

7.7 The Necessity of Choosing Prudently in Ethical Consciousness // 175

8 THE NECESSITY OF JUSTICE AND FRIENDSHIP IN THE WILL AS RATIONAL APPETITE FOR A COMMUNAL GOOD // 181

8.1 Justice and Friendship as General Dispositions of Willing in a Community // 184

8.2 General Justice and Injustice // 185

8.3 The Twofold Rendering of Justice in a Community // 192

8.4 Friendship as Necessary General Disposition in the Actualization of a Communal Good // 195

8.5 The Historical Dialectic of Justice and Friendship in Communities // 204

8.6 The Historical Necessity of Dialogue and Labor in Communion with Other Selves // 210

9	THE NECESSITY OF AUTHORITY AND LAW IN THE FREE AND COMMUNAL EXERCISE OF SELF-DETERMINATION // 217
9.1	Authority and the Common Good // 220
9.2	Human Law as Rational Articulation of Fundamental Social Principles // 228
9.3	Human Law as Determination of Historical Social Structures // 238
9.4	Conscience, Law, and Revolution // 249
10	THE NECESSITY OF COURAGE AND TEMPERANCE AS DISPOSITIONS IN THE SENSE APPETITES OF ETHICAL CONSCIOUSNESS FOR A RATIONAL PARTICIPATION IN THE COMMUNAL GOOD // 255
10.1	The Plurality of Particular Sense Appetites in Tension with Reason and the Will in the Rational Soul // 257
10.2	The Regulation of Sense Appetites in the Rational Animal through Reason and Free Will // 258
10.3	Distinguishing between Good and Evil in the Sense Appetites // 260
10.4	The Integration of the Sense Appetites and Reason into One Another as Part of Right Reasoning for Free Agents // 262
10.5	The Problem of Discerning What Is Morally Good and Morally Evil in One's Emotions Relative to a Second Perfection as the Final Good for Human Action // 265
10.6	How Moral Virtue Emerges in the Emotions and Sense Appetites as a Necessary Complement to the Virtues of Prudence and Justice in Intelligence and Free Will, and How It Comes to Be Distinguished in Two Capital Virtues, Courage and Temperance, Summing Up All Virtues in the Emotions of Selves in a Culture // 266
10.7	Finding the Mean between Excess and Deficiency in the Flow of Emotions and Sense Appetites and Developing Dispositions Compatible with Ideals of Justice and Friendship // 268
10.8	The Cardinal Virtues of Courage and Temperance in the Sense Appetites // 272
10.9	The Necessity of Many Particular Virtues to Balance the Sense Appetites as Part of the Second Perfection We Seek in the Communal Good of Our Ethical Self-consciousness in the Diversity of Cultures // 273
	Conclusion // 275
	Index // 277