

CONTENTS

INTRODUCTION

xvii

1. ANCIENT WARFARE

i

TACTICS 2

- Hand-to-Hand Combat on Foot 2
- Combat on Foot with Missiles 6
- Mounted Combat 8
- Fortification and Siegecraft 10
- Greek Heavy Infantry against Persian Light Infantry and Cavalry 14
- Greek Light Infantry in Combat with Greek Heavy Infantry 19
- Alexander's Conquests with a Complete Combined-Arms Army 21
- The Roman Art of War 26
- The Romans in Confrontation with the Alexandrian System of Pyrrhus and Hannibal 28
- The Roman Victories with the Alexandrian System 32
- The Roman Legion Perfected 34
- The Romans against the Mounted Parthians 35
- Summary of the Capabilities of the Four Weapon Systems 39

LOGISTICS 45

- The Provision of Soldiers and Supplies 45
- Logistics Illustrated by Alexander's Persian Campaign 49

STRATEGY 54

- Persisting and Raiding Strategies Distinguished 54
- Alexander's Campaign: An Exemplification of Combat, Logistic, and Persisting Strategies 57
- Alexander's Encounter with a Raiding Strategy 62
- Military Victories without Political Support: Hannibal's Experience with the Fabian Strategy 65
- A Rare Instance of the Use of Interior Lines of Operations in Ancient Times 70
- Caesar's Strategy in the Conquest of Gaul 72
- Caesar's Ilerda Campaign: An Unusual Occurrence of the Turning Movement 75

Caesar's Campaign against Pompey	80
SUMMARY OF WARFARE ON LAND	81
NAVAL WARFARE	86
 2. THE DIVERSITY OF THE MEDIEVAL WAYS OF WAR, 200-1200	 92
The Dissolution of the Roman Empire	92
Changes in Military Organization and Tactical Emphasis	93
Least Effort Exemplified: Byzantine Tactics and Strategy	95
The Stirrup's Enhancement of the Effectiveness of Cavalry	102
Western Europe's Struggle against Raiders	104
William's Combined-Arms Army in the Conquest of England	109
Attack and Defense of Fortifications	114
Medieval Tactics	118
Medieval Strategy: The Evesham and Bouvines Campaigns	123
Examples of an Offensive Persisting Strategy against Raiders	127
Combined-Arms Combat in the Crusades	134
Jenghiz Khan and Mongol Warfare	142
Summary of Medieval Tactics and Strategy	144
 3. THE EMERGENCE OF A NEW COMBINED-ARMS TACTICAL SYNTHESIS, 1200-1600	 148
The French Version of Medieval Warfare	148
Changes in Logistics	150
Changes in Weapons	151
Persisting Strategy and the Completion of the English Conquest of Wales	154
The English Combined-Arms Tactical System in Scotland	156
The Beginning of the Hundred Years' War and the Crécy Campaign	161
The Hundred Years' War: English Raids and French Persisting Strategy	165
English Persisting Strategy in the Last Phase of the Hundred Years' War	169
The Experience of the English Tactical System in Spain	173
The Wagenburg	174
The Swiss Heavy Infantry	175
The Least Effort Warfare of the Italian Condottieri	178
Regional Tactical Systems in Conflict: The French Invasion of Italy	182
The Search for a Combined-Arms Synthesis: Italian Battles, 1512-25	186
The Spanish Combined-Arms Tactics	190
The New Fortifications	194
Another Influence of Technology on Tactics	195
The Manpower System in 1600	199
Sixteenth-Century Battles, Campaigns, and Strategy	202
Revolution in Naval Tactics and Logistics	209

4.	THE NEW TACTICAL SYNTHESIS IN TRANSITION, 1600-1700	214
	The Logistics of the Thirty Years' War	214
	Gustavus Adolphus's Development of the Dutch Tactical System	221
	Gustavus's Persisting Strategy and Employment of Distraction	223
	Gustavus's Exploitation of the Triumph of His Linear System at Breitenfeld	232
	Gustavus against Wallenstein: Logistic and Combat Strategies	237
	The Impact of Gustavus's Tactics	243
	The Logistics of the Late Seventeenth Century	252
	Representative Late Seventeenth-Century Campaigns and Battles	256
	The Development of Missile Warfare at Sea	263
5.	THE PRIMACY OF THE LINE OF BAYONETED MUSKETS, 1700-1791	267
	The Bayonet, the Flintlock, and Further Changes in Tactics	267
	Eighteenth-Century Logistics	272
	The Strategy and Tactics of Marlborough's Campaigns	274
	Persisting Strategy in North Italy	283
	The Evolution of the Linear System	289
	Tactics and Strategy as Exemplified in the Silesian Wars of Frederick the Great	294
	The Seven Years' War: Tactics and Strategy in Defense against the Logistic Effects of a Persisting Strategy	297
	Changes in Attrition in Relation to the Composition of Armies	308
	Significant Developments in French Military Thought	309
	Warfare in the Western Hemisphere	317
	Warfare at Sea	318
6.	TACTICAL AND STRATEGIC TRANSFORMATION IN THE ERA OF THE FRENCH REVOLUTION AND NAPOLEON, 1791-1815	320
	The Tactics and Strategy of the Opening Campaigns in the North	320
	The Advent of General Bonaparte	330
	The Strategic Turning Movement of the Marengo Campaign	337
	Napoleonic Operations on a Larger Scale: The Strategic Turning Movement of Ulm and Distraction and Concentration at Austerlitz	342
	Some Characteristics of Napoleon's Campaigns	347
	The Augmented Significance of Numerical Superiority	351
	Some Later Napoleonic Campaigns	353
	Operations in Spain: The French Encounter the Raiding Strategy of Guerrilla Warfare	358
	The Foundations of the French Conquests	367
	The Military Legacy of the Napoleonic Era	372
	The Tactics of Warfare at Sea	377
	The Strategy of Warfare at Sea	381

7.	TECHNOLOGICAL CHANGE AND DOCTRINAL STABILITY, 1815-1914	387
	The Continuation of the Napoleonic Tradition in Radetzky's Victories	387
	The Midcentury's New Infantry Weapons	390
	The Prussian Staff and Manpower System	392
	The New Prussian Army in Action against Austria	396
	Decisive Turning Movements in the Franco-Prussian War	398
	A Summary of the Tactics, Logistics, and Strategy of the Franco-Prussian War	407
	The Strategy of the American Civil War	409
	Two Instances of Combating the Raiding Strategy of Guerrilla Warfare	418
	European Weapons, Armies, and Doctrine on the Eve of World War I	419
	The Revolution in Naval Materiel and its Use in the Russo-Japanese War	423
8.	THE APOGEE OF THE DEFENSE: WORLD WAR I, 1914-18	434
	The German Concentration on Interior Lines and Effort to Turn the French	434
	The Tactical, Logistical, and Strategic Conditions of the War	439
	The German Exploitation of Interior Lines and a Turning Movement to Defeat the Russians	441
	The Opening Naval Campaigns	443
	Allied Naval Predominance Confirmed: The Battle of Jutland	446
	The Submarine as a Commerce Raider	447
	The Dominance of Artillery in the Siege Warfare on Land	449
	The Development and Utility of Air Forces	450
	The Tactics of Trench Warfare	456
	The War in 1915 and 1916	459
	The Search for a Technological Solution to the Tactical Deadlock	463
	The German Quest for Victory through a Logistic Strategy Using Submarines	467
	The New German Method of Defense	467
	The New German Doctrine for Attack	472
	The Campaigns of 1918 on the Western Front	475
	A Turning Movement through Superior Mobility: The Megiddo Campaign	480
	Summary of the Changes in Weapons, Tactics, and Logistics	483
9.	PRELUDE TO RENEWED CONFLICT, 1919-39	489
	The Full Development of Four New Weapon Systems	489
	The French in Morocco: New Weapons and Old Strategy	497
	Tactical and Strategic Use of Aircraft	501
	A Russian Cannae	501

	The Navies' Response to the New Weapons	502
	Doctrinal Diversity	504
10.	THE CLIMAX OF MODERN WARFARE: WORLD WAR II, 1939-45	508
	The German Victory over Poland	508
	The French and German Armies	510
	French and German Plans	518
	The New German Offensive Plan	520
	The German Breakthrough in May 1940	523
	The Causes of the German Breakthrough	534
	The German Turning Movement	535
	The German Victory: Napoleonic Warfare with Four Weapon Systems	539
	Air Power in a Decisive Role: The Battle of Britain	544
	The Strategic and Tactical Conditions of the Russo-German War	548
	The Strategic Envelopments of the 1941 Campaign in Russia	552
	The Debacle of the German Logistic Strategy of 1942 and the Conclusion of the Russo-German War	557
	Distraction, Concentration, and Turning Movement Again: The Landing and Campaign in Normandy	559
	The British Inauguration of Mounted Warfare in North Africa and the Defeat of the Italians	563
	The Warfare of the Mounted British and German Armies	565
	New and Improved Weapons	569
	The Interaction of Technology with Strategy	576
	Strategic Bombing	578
	Combat at Sea with Two Types of Capital Ships	583
	The German Submarine Campaign	589
11.	AFTER THE WORLD WARS: CONSOLIDATION AND TECHNOLOGICAL CHANGE, 1945-85	596
	Changes in Weapons	596
	The All-Mounted Army	601
	The Israeli-Egyptian War of 1973	602
	The Tactical Mixture of Old and New	609
12.	CONTINUITY AND CHANGE	613
	SEA AND AIR WARFARE	613
	Chronological Survey	613
	Recapitulation of the Characteristics of Naval Warfare	616
	Summary of the Attributes of Aircraft in Warfare	619
	TACTICS	622
	Chronological Summary	622
	Technology and the Four Basic Weapon Systems	629

	The Economics of Force Composition	630
	The Role of Articulation and Offensive Troops in Concentrating against Weakness	634
	Battles and Casualties	638
	LOGISTICS	643
	Chronological Overview	643
	Alternative Manpower Systems	645
	STRATEGY	648
	Chronological Summary	648
	The Classifications of Military Strategy	662
	The Influence of the Ratio of Force to Space	666
	The Supremacy of Retreat Over Pursuit	667
	Concentration against Weakness, Distraction, and the Principles of War	668
	Compelling the Enemy to Fight, Turning Movements, and Concentration in Space and Time	670
	The Nature and Objectives of a Raiding Strategy	675
	Guerrilla Warfare as an Application of Raiding Strategy	679
	Defense and Offense against Guerrilla Warfare	681
	Summary of Alternatives Confronting Commanders	690
	Continuity and Change	704
NOTES		717
INDEX		725

LIST OF SCHEMATICS

1.1	Spartans' Flanking Maneuver	5
1.2	Weapon Systems Matrix	39
1.3	Strategy Matrix	85
2.1	Tactical Capabilities of Weapon Systems	144
3.1	Tactical Capabilities of Weapon Systems without Reiters	197
3.2	Tactical Capabilities of Weapon Systems with Reiters	198
5.1	Musketeers with Bayonets versus Cavalry	269
5.2	Prussian Approach March	293
5.3	Processional March	293
6.1	Combat Relationship between Infantry and Cavalry	373
7.1	The Dominance of Light Infantry and the Defense	402
9.1	Substitution Relationship between Mobility and Power	493
9.2	Traditional Weapon Systems Matrix	494
9.3	1930s Weapon Systems Matrix	494
9.4	Traditional Weapon Systems Capabilities	494
9.5	1930s Weapon Systems Capabilities	495
11.1	1930s Weapon Systems Capabilities	611
11.2	1930s Weapon Systems Capabilities	611
11.3	Relation of World War I Infantry and Artillery to 1930s Weapon Systems	612
12.1	Marginal Rate of Substitution between Spearmen and Dismounted Knights, Exhibiting a Curve of Equal Combat Effectiveness under Certain Conditions	632
12.2	The Role of Cost in Choosing the Optimum Combination of Spearmen and Dismounted Knights	632
12.3	Strategy Matrix	662
12.4	More General Strategy Matrix	663
12.5	The Influence of the Ratio of Force to Space	666
12.6	Comparison of the Strengths of Raiding and Persisting Strategies	686
12.7	Summary of Alternatives for Combatting a Raiding Strategy or Guerrilla Warfare	689
12.8	Choice between Military Strategy and Military Means to Attain Non-military Results	692
12.9	Choice between the Two Most Basic Means of Attacking the Enemy Armed Forces	693
12.10	Alternatives in the Employment of a Logistic Strategy against Enemy Armed Forces	694
12.11	Alternatives for a Combat Defense against a Logistic Raiding Strategy	695

12.12	Alternative Means of Using a Logistic Strategy to Defend against a Logistic Raiding Strategy	696
12.13	The Two Fundamental Offensive Possibilities in Combat Strategy	698
12.14	Alternatives in Pursuing an Offensive Combat Strategy	698
12.15	Defender's Alternatives for Resisting a Combat Persisting Strategy	700
12.16	Defender's Combat Persisting Alternatives against the Same Kind of Attack	700
12.17	Alternatives for Attacking against a Guerrilla Resistance	702
12.18	Alternatives Available When Attacker and Defender Both Employ a Combat Persisting Strategy	704
12.19	Strategic Alternatives: A Summary	705

LIST OF TABLES

5.1	Sources of Prussian Income in the Seven Years' War	306
7.1	The Initial Prussian Cadre, Reserve, and Militia Force	394
7.2	The Prussian Cadre and Reserve Force	395
7.3	The Strength of the German, French, and Russian Armies in 1914	422
8.1	Comparison of Ships at the Battle of the Falkland Islands	445
8.2	Some World War I Artillery	452
8.3	The Submarine War, 1917-18	468
10.1	Comparison of French and German Light Tanks	511
10.2	Comparison of French and German Medium Tanks	512
10.3	Comparison of Russian and German Light Tanks	550
10.4	Comparison of Russian and German Medium Tanks	550

LIST OF DIAGRAMS

1.1	Roman Interior Lines	71
1.2	Turning Movement	78
3.1	Battle of Ceresole	193
4.1	Gustavus's First Distraction	227
4.2	Gustavus Exploits Interior Lines	228
4.3	Second Distraction Fails	229
4.4	Diagram of Positions and Movements at Breitenfeld	235
4.5	Diagram of Dispositions and Actions at Lützen	242
4.6	Action at Fleurus	261
5.1	Blenheim: Distraction and Concentration	278
5.2	Eugene Distracts Catinat	284
5.3	Eugene's Interior Lines	285
5.4	Frederick's Interior Lines	300
6.1	Coburg's Attempted Envelopment	327
6.2	Souham Acts on Interior Lines	328

6.3	Napoleon's Dispersion	334
6.4	Concentration on Interior Lines	335
6.5	Interior Lines Exploited	336
6.6	Napoleon's Strategic Turning Movement	340
6.7	Napoleon's Turning Movement at Ulm	343
6.8	Action at Austerlitz	346
7.1	Radetzky's Turning Movement	389
7.2	Moltke's Turning Movement	405
7.3	Interior Lines and Turning Movement	406
7.4	Napoleon's Situation before Würmser's First Relief of Mantua	411
7.5	Analogous Strategic Situation in March 1862	411
7.6	Napoleon's Concentration against Quasdonovich	412
7.7	Confederate Concentration against Grant	412
7.8	Napoleon Drives Back Quasdonovich and Turns against Würmser	412
7.9	Hypothetical Outcome if Confederates Had Defeated Grant before Buell Joined Him	412
7.10	Grant Turns Vicksburg	414
7.11	Continuous Turning Movement	414
7.12	Second Bull Run Turning Movement Forces Pope Back	415
7.13	Gettysburg Turning Movement Forces Hooker Back	415
8.1	Opening Turning Movement of World War I	436
8.2	Joffre Exploits His Strategic Mobility	437
8.3	Battle of Marne and Aftermath	438
8.4	German Use of Interior Lines and Railway for Turning Movement	443
8.5	Allenby's Distraction, Breakthrough, and Turning Movement	482
10.1	German Strategic Envelopment with Simultaneous Advances	509
10.2	First French and German Plans	518
10.3	Final French and German Plans	522
10.4	German Advance into Belgium	524
10.5	Panzer Divisions Reach the Meuse	526
10.6	French Fall Back from Dinant	528
10.7	Panzer Breakthrough at Sedan	530
10.8	German Breakthrough	533
10.9	Strategic Turning Movement	537
10.10	Final German Offensive in France	541
10.11	German Successes at Minsk, Smolensk, and Vyazma	555
10.12	Montgomery's Distraction	561
10.13	Breakout and Turning Movement	562
10.14	British Turn Sidi Barrani	564
11.1	Israeli Counterattack and Turning Movement	609

LIST OF ILLUSTRATIONS

1.1	Light Infantry	8
1.2	Siege Tower	12

1.3	Siege Artillery	13
1.4	Heavy Cavalryman	22
1.5	Heavy Cavalryman Defeats Light Infantryman	40
2.1	Catapult	116
2.2	Ram	117
3.1	Plate Armor	152
3.2	Matchlock	154
3.3	Heavy Infantryman	179
3.4	Cross-Section of New Fortifications	194
3.5	Flanking Fire in a Ditch	194
3.6	Outline of New Fortifications	194
3.7	Wheel Lock Handgun	196
5.1	Flintlock Mechanism	270
5.2	Light Cavalryman	291
5.3	Cannon Firing Twelve-pound Ball	311
7.1	Steam Railroad and Telegraph	396
7.2	Maxim's Gun	420
7.3	The Large Battle Cruiser H.M.S. Tiger	432
8.1	Paris Gun	451
8.2	Pusher Airplane	454
8.3	Sopwith Camel, Tractor with Synchronized Machine Guns	455
8.4	Prototype Landship	466
9.1	Small-Bore, High-Velocity German Antitank Gun	492
10.1	Char-B Tank	512
10.2	75-mm Recoilless Rifle	572
10.3	Rocket Launcher	573
10.4	Torpedo Plane	585
10.5	German Submarine	590
11.1	Jet Aircraft	597
11.2	Antiaircraft Rocket	598
11.3	Helicopter	601

LIST OF MAPS

1.1	Greece	16
1.2	Persian Empire	50-51
1.3	Carthaginian Area of Influence	66
2.1	Evesham Area	124
2.2	Wales	128
4.1	Germany	225
7.1	Theater of Operations in the Russo-Japanese War	428
8.1	Central and Eastern Europe	460