Contents

List of Figures page ix
Foreword xi

1 The Pleasure of Thought 1
1.1 Discovering the Pleasure of Thinking 2
1.2 Assumptions, Conceptual and Methodological Basis 22
1.3 Synthesis 39

2 On the Emergence of Pleasurable Thinking 40
2.1 Early Observations in Infants 43
2.2 The Diversification of Pleasures in Young Children 57
2.3 Playing, Learning, and Pleasure in and out of School 72
2.4 The Development of the Child Thinking with Pleasure 85
2.5 Synthesis 91

3 Thinking the Pleasures with Psychoanalysis 94
3.1 The Psychic Apparatus: Thinking with Freud 95
3.2 Thinking Thinking, after Freud 102
3.3 Third Generation of Psychoanalytical Thinking 112
3.4 Synthesis 123

4 Thinking in Sociocultural Psychology 127
4.1 Vygotsky's Question: Affects in Thinking 128
4.2 Semiotic Cultural Psychology 129
4.3 Synthesis 142

5 Thinking through the Psyche 147
5.1 Four Principles about Mind 149
5.2 Steps towards a Model of the Functioning Mind 153
5.3 Modelling the Activity of Thinking 158
5.4 Synthesis 163

6 The Pleasure of Thinking in Diverse Experiences 164
6.1 Thinking for Pleasure? 165
6.2 Pleasure in Three Modes of Thinking 167
6.3 Variations in Systems of Knowledge 171

6.4 The Pleasure of Thinking in Daily Activities 173
6.5 Synthesis 182

7 Trajectories of Pleasures in Thinking 184
7.1 Trajectories of Engagements and the Pleasure of Thinking 185
7.2 Pleasure in Life-Long Thinking Engagements 192
7.3 Trajectories of Pleasure of Thinking with Age 199
7.4 Synthesis 207

8 Thinking Forward 209
8.1 The Centrality of Pleasure in the Development of Thinking 210
8.2 The Ethics of Thinking with Pleasure 213
8.3 Supporting the Pleasure of Thinking 216
8.4 Openings 220

Notes 222
References 235
Index 268