

Contents

Acknowledgments	ix
Introduction	xi
Part I. Tabula Rasa	1
Chapter 1. Essential Codes	3
A. Binary Dreams: Polymath, Polyword, Pollywog	3
Chapter 2. A Classification and Procedures Practicum	13
A. Some Initial Thoughts on Practicing Law and Computer Science	13
B. Being Amphib	22
C. Some “Bold” Questions	26
D. User Stories	27
Chapter 3. Work as Foil to Pretension	33
A. The Open Innovator Death Loop	33
B. Innovation Bling	34
C. Zen and Kaizen in the Art of Legal AI	36
Chapter 4. Four Axioms in a Bottle	39
Chapter 5. Definitions, Representations, Models	45
A. Background: The Attorney Ontology; Constitutions and Class Libraries	45
B. AI	54
C. Algorithm	66
D. Legal AI	69
E. On Data Control	71

Part II. Why, What, How	75
Chapter 6. Why	77
A. Kigali and the House of Why	77
B. The Database That Was Not	79
C. Blank Slate Design	83
Chapter 7. What	85
A. Horsepower	85
B. General Preferences and Quarters	87
C. Horsepower as a Remedy for Special Problems in Horselaw	88
D. Reins (Spurs (And Self-Learning Horses (Learning Themselves)))	89
Chapter 8. How	93
A. Mainly Meiji	93
B. Shogunate	93
C. Iron Ships on the Shore	94
D. Impelled (Or Alt-Neu and You)	96
Part III. A Computational Model of Law	101
Chapter 9. A Brief History of Law and Computer Science	103
A. Leibniz Redux	103
B. On “Cyber” ... “Nets,” “Netics,” and Other Creatures	107
C. Stupidita Automatica	111
Chapter 10. A Narrow View of a Scalable Truth	115
A. Law and Mathematics: A Love Story	116
B. CodeX	117
C. Lex Machina	120
D. Predictive Modeling in the Labyrinth	134
E. Law at Time Zero	135
Part IV. EDEN	143
Chapter 11. Initial Conditions (Background)	145
A. Seven Steps to Software Doom	145
B. The No-Bot and the Wrong-Taumaton	151

C. On Radium Skin Cream Industries	158
D. BSAI	162
Chapter 12. A Brief Recipe	165
A. Baking the Meiji Donut	165
B. Empirical Designs	167
C. EDEN: A Specification	170
Part V. FinCity	173
Chapter 13. Project Background	175
A. The Act of an Act	179
B. FCA Background	179
C. EDEN In Situ (And Statu)	181
D. Macrocosm	182
Chapter 14. FinCity Design	187
Chapter 15. FinCity Empirical	197
A. LIBOR 2.0	198
B. The Confusion Matrix	202
i. Matrix, Interrupt Us	207
ii. Lies, Damn Lies, and Statistical Software Systems	210
iii. Matrix Profusion	212
iv. Governmental Meta-Matrices	218
Chapter 16. FinCity Net	221
A. A Counting	221
B. Summation and Proportionality	222
Chapter 17. FinCity Evolution	225
A. Embracing Uncertainty; Pressure for Evolution	225
B. Caveats in Data and Success Metrics	228
C. Parallel Regulatory Environments	229
Coda: Next Acts, Recursive Steps	231
Chapter 18. FinCity as AI	233
A. Recursion in Regulation	233
B. The Territory Is the Map, the Map, the Territory	233

C. FinCity AI Surfaces and Archetypes	234
D. Advanced Legal AI	236
i. White Queen/Red Queen	236
ii. Data Control Applications	237
iii. Governance AI/Legal AI Subsystem Equivalence	238
iv. Engineering Versus Ethics	238
Chapter 19. AI Futures Past	239
A. GovBot 2.0	239
B. Special K, Meta K (or Smart Contracts, Dumb World)	239
C. Armed Autonomous Toasters (Weapons and War Crimes)	240
D. Flying Car Lawyer (Laws for Autonomous Systems)	240
E. The Set of Things We Cannot See (“Other”)	240