

Contents

Part I. Introductory Material	1
1. A Brief Introduction to Utilitarianism	2
1.1 Introduction	2
1.2 The Ethical Domain	2
1.2.1 Deontic Properties	6
1.2.2 Reason Properties	9
1.2.3 Evaluative Properties	13
1.3 Utilitarianism	17
1.3.1 Utilitarianism's Answer to the Relevance Question	19
1.3.2 Utilitarianism's Answer to the Significance Question	21
1.3.3 Utilitarianism's Answer to the Combinatorial Question	22
1.3.4 Utilitarianism's Deontic Verdicts	23
1.4 Being a Utilitarian	25
1.4.1 Utilitarianism and Self-Effacement	26
1.4.2 The Approximation Strategy of a Utilitarian	29
1.5 Conclusion	34
2. An Argument from the Classical Utilitarians	36
2.1 Introduction	36
2.2 Bentham's Argument from the Burden of Proof	37
2.3 Mill's Argument from Desire as Sole Evidence	44
2.4 Sidgwick's Argument from Temporal Insensitivity	50
2.5 Conclusion	56
Part II. Normative Principles	59
3. Maximizing Is Sufficient and Constraints	60
3.1 Introduction	60
3.2 One for Two	61
3.3 The Argument from One for Two	63

3.4	Why Are Constraints Puzzling	65
3.5	The Standard Story of Action Argument against Non-Consequentialism	66
3.6	The Collective Self-Defeat Argument against Agent-Relative Consequentialism	69
3.7	The No Approach Succeeds Argument against Constraints	73
3.8	Decision-Deontic Confusion	74
3.9	Conclusion	77
4.	Maximizing Is Necessary and Demandingness	79
4.1	Introduction	79
4.2	Endless Self-Sacrifice	80
4.3	The Argument from Endless Self-Sacrifice	81
4.4	The Minimal Beneficence Argument against Existence Internalism	84
4.5	The Moral Reasons Ubiquity Argument against Rational Options Abound	86
4.6	Impermissibility-Blame Confusion	89
4.7	Conclusion	93
5.	Objectivism and Action Guidance	95
5.1	Introduction	95
5.2	Mineshafts	97
5.3	The Action Problem Argument against Objective Consequentialism	98
5.4	The Argument from Ambiguous Ability	101
5.5	The Centrality Problem Argument against Objective Consequentialism	105
5.6	The Deontic Force Argument against Impermissibility Aversion	108
5.7	Conclusion	111
6.	Actualism and Control Sensitivity	113
6.1	Introduction	113
6.2	Sequential Doses	115
6.3	The Argument from Diachronic Identical Control	117
6.4	The Ensuring Control Argument against Diachronic Identical Control	119
6.5	The Argument for Only Irreversible Actions Are Available	124

6.6	The Argument from Synchronic Identical Control	126
6.7	Actualistic Consequentialism's Response to Synchronic Cases	129
6.7.1	The Problem of Act Versions Argument against Every Act Directly	129
6.7.2	The Best Solution Argument for Only Non-Entailed Acts Directly	133
6.7.3	The Only Non-Entailed Acts Directly Argument against Synchronic Control Insensitivity	137
6.8	Conclusion	138
7.	Individualism and Overdetermination	141
7.1	Introduction	141
7.2	Asteroid	142
7.3	Individualistic Consequentialism and the Principle of Moral Harmony	144
7.3.1	The Argument That Volitional-Focused Individualistic Consequentialism Is Unharmonious	145
7.3.2	The Argument That Volitional-Rational-Focused Individualistic Consequentialism Is Unharmonious	147
7.3.3	The Principle of Moral Harmony Argument against Individualistic Consequentialism	152
7.4	A Harmonious Form of Individualistic Consequentialism	153
7.4.1	The Pragmatic Encroachment Argument against No State Given	154
7.4.2	The Preference Permissibility Argument against the Object-Given Preference Profile	157
7.4.3	The Argument That Volitional-Rational-Focused Individualistic Consequentialism Is Harmonious	162
7.5	Conclusion	163
	Part III. Evaluative Principles	167
8.	Hedonism and the Experience Machine	168
8.1	Introduction	168
8.2	The Experience Machine	169
8.3	The Argument from the Experience Machine	170
8.4	The Argument from Self-Supervenience to Mental State Supervenience	172
8.5	The Argument from Invariabilism and Monism to Hedonism	176
8.6	Conclusion	181

9. Welfarism and Sadistic Pleasure	184
9.1 Introduction	184
9.2 Sadistic Pleasure	185
9.3 The Argument from Sadistic Pleasure	186
9.4 The Well-Being in Ill-Being Argument against Welfarism	188
9.5 The Intrinsic Goodness Argument against Not Good	190
9.6 The Argument from Innocuous Sadism	193
9.7 Conclusion	197
10. Proportionalism and Worthiness	199
10.1 Introduction	199
10.2 Saint or Sinner	200
10.3 The Basic Value Depends on Worthiness Argument against Proportionalism	201
10.4 Graphing Proportionalism	202
10.5 The Fit Idea Argument against the Merit View	204
10.6 The Polarity Preservation Argument against the Desert View	208
10.7 The Circularity Argument against Worthiness	212
10.8 Conclusion	215
11. Additive Aggregation and The Repugnant Conclusion	217
11.1 Introduction	217
11.2 The Repugnant Conclusion	218
11.3 The Argument from the Repugnant Conclusion	221
11.4 The Argument against Additive Aggregation	223
11.5 The Argument to Accept Repugnance	224
11.6 The Argument for the Unreliability of Repugnance	230
11.7 Conclusion	232
Appendix A: Principles to Utilitarianism	235
Appendix B: Alternative Principles	237
Appendix C: Theory Assessment	242
Glossary	248