1 Theoretical Foundations 1
1.1 Linguistics and Second Language Acquisition 2
1.1.1 What Is Linguistics? 2
1.1.2 Second Language Acquisition: Timing and Context 5
1.1.3 Heritage Speakers: In between First and Second Language Acquisition 6
1.1.4 Biological Foundations of Language 9
1.1.5 The Role of Input in Language Acquisition 10
1.1.6 Differences among First Language Learners, Second Language Learners, and Heritage Speakers 12
1.2 The Explicit vs. Implicit Distinction 15
1.2.1 Implicit vs. Explicit Knowledge and Learning 16
1.2.2 Characteristics of Implicit vs. Explicit Knowledge 17
1.2.3 How do Implicit and Explicit Knowledge Interact? 19
1.2.4 Implicit vs. Explicit Instruction and Feedback 20
1.2.5 Measuring Implicit vs. Explicit Knowledge and Learning 22
1.2.6 The Explicit vs. Implicit Distinction in Intervention Research 27
1.3 What's Next? 27
1.4 Discussion Questions 28
1.5 Further Reading 28

2 Intervention Research and Grammar Teaching 30
2.1 Introduction to Classroom and Lab-Based Intervention Research 30
2.1.1 Where to Start: Pedagogical vs. Theoretical Starting Points 31
2.1.2 The Learning Environment: Foreign Language vs. Immersive 33

2.1.3 Components of Intervention Research Studies 35
2.1.4 Control Group vs. Comparison Group Design 37
2.1.5 (Quasi-)Experimental Design 38
2.1.6 Timeline of Intervention Research Studies 41
2.1.7 Summary: The Logic of Intervention Research 43
2.2 Approaches to Grammar Teaching 45
2.2.1 Naturalistic vs. Instructed Second Language Acquisition 45
2.2.2 Choices in Second Language Grammar Instruction 46
2.2.3 Content-Based Language Teaching 47
2.2.4 Traditional Focus on FormS Instruction 48
2.2.5 Communicative Language Teaching 49
2.2.6 Focus on Form Approaches 49
2.2.7 Processing Instruction 51
2.2.8 Summary: Approaches to Second Language Instruction and Sample Application 52
2.3 A Preview of the Next Eight Chapters 53
2.4 Discussion Questions 54
2.5 Further Reading 55

3 Articles 57
3.1 Terminology 57
3.1.1 Count vs. Mass Nouns, and Article Omission 59
3.1.2 Definiteness 59
3.1.3 Specificity 61
3.1.4 Genericity 62
3.1.5 Kind Reference 64
3.1.6 Summary: Articles in Second Language Acquisition 65
3.2 Intervention Studies on Articles in English as a Second Language 65
3.2.1 Intervention Studies with a Focus on Particular Instructional Techniques 67
3.2.2 Intervention Studies with a Focus on Particular Theoretical Approaches to Articles 72
3.3 Summary and Implications 77
3.4 Discussion Questions 79
3.5 Applications Questions 79
3.6 Further Reading 81

4 Verb Placement and Question Formation 83
4.1 Terminology 84
4.1.1 Functional Categories and Features 84

4.1.2 The Verb Movement Parameter 85
4.1.3 Verb Second 87
4.1.4 Wh-movement: Question Formation 88
4.2 Adverb Placement in Second Language Acquisition 90
4.2.1 The Verb Movement Parameter in Second Language Acquisition 90
4.2.2 Classroom Intervention Studies on Adverb-Verb Placement in English 92
4.2.3 Intervention Studies on Negative Adverb Placement in English as a Second Language 99
4.2.4 Intervention Studies on Verb Placement in Spanish as a Second Language 100
4.2.5 Summary: Intervention Studies with Adverbs 102
4.3 Question Formation in Second Language Acquisition 105
4.3.1 Question Formation: Findings from Second Language Acquisition Research 105
4.3.2 Intervention Studies on Question Formation 106
4.4 Summary and Implications 114
4.5 Discussion Questions 117
4.6 Applications Questions 117
4.7 Further Reading 118

5 Inflectional Morphology 119
5.1 Terminology 119
5.2 Inflectional Morphology in Second Language Acquisition: Experimental Findings and Theoretical Implications 122
5.2.1 Errors with Inflectional Morphology as a Representation vs. Processing Problem 123
5.2.2 Psycholinguistic Studies on Inflectional Morphology in Second Language Acquisition 125
5.3 Intervention Research Studies on Inflectional Morphology 126
5.3.1 Processing Instruction Studies on Tense Marking 126
5.3.2 Explicit vs. Implicit Knowledge and Instruction in the Domain of Verbal Morphology 135
5.3.3 Differential Effects of Corrective Feedback Types on Grammatical Gender 141
5.4 Summary and Implications 149
5.5 Discussion Questions 150
5.6 Applications Questions 151
5.7 Further Reading 152

6 Subjunctive Mood 153
6.1 Terminology 154
6.1.1 Indicative vs. Subjunctive Mood 154
6.1.2 The Subjunctive in Spanish 156
6.1.3 The Subjunctive Mood in Linguistic Theory 160
6.2 First and Second Language Acquisition Studies on the Subjunctive 161
6.2.1 The Subjunctive in First Language Acquisition 161
6.2.2 The Subjunctive in Second Language Acquisition 162
6.3 Second Language Intervention Research Studies on the Subjunctive 168
6.3.1 Processing Instruction Studies with the Subjunctive 168
6.3.2 Instruction with the Subjunctive in Adverbial Clauses 176
6.3.3 The Use of Psycholinguistic Methods in Intervention Studies with the Subjunctive 177
6.4 Studies of the Subjunctive with Heritage Speakers of Romance Languages 183
6.4.1 Experimental Studies on Knowledge of the Subjunctive in Heritage Speakers 183
6.4.2 Intervention Studies on the Subjunctive with Heritage Spanish Speakers 185
6.5 Summary and Implications 190
6.6 Discussion Questions 190
6.7 Applications Questions 191
6.8 Further Reading 192

7 Argument Structure 194
7.1 Terminology and Linguistic Background 194
7.1.1 Transitivity 195
7.1.2 The Passive 197
7.1.3 Intransitive Verbs and the Unaccusative Hypothesis 201
7.2 The Acquisition of Passives 204
7.2.1 Passives in Second Language Acquisition 205
7.2.2 Classroom Intervention Studies on the Passive 205
7.3 The Acquisition of Unaccusativity 214
7.3.1 Unaccusatives and Overpassivization 215
7.3.2 The Unaccusativity Hierarchy 217
7.3.3 Intervention Studies with English Unaccusatives 218
7.3.4 Acquisition of Spanish Unaccusatives 220
7.4 Summary and Implications 229

7.5 Discussion Questions 229
7.6 Application Questions 229
7.7 Further Reading 231

8 Direct and Indirect Objects 232
8.1 Terminology 232
8.2 The English Double Object Construction in Second Language Acquisition 233
8.2.1 Background on Double Objects: Theory and First Language Acquisition 234
8.2.2 Second Language Acquisition Experimental Research on English Double Object Constructions 236
8.2.3 Intervention Studies with English Double Object Constructions 238
8.2.4 Summary and Implications: English Double Object Constructions 246
8.3 The Expression of Objects in the Second Language Acquisition of Spanish 246
8.3.1 Background: Object Expression in Spanish 248
8.3.2 Studies on Object Expression in Spanish as a Second Language 252
8.3.3 Intervention Studies of Spanish Object Expression 253
8.3.4 Summary and Implications: Object Expression in Spanish 266
8.4 Discussion Questions 266
8.5 Applications Questions 267
8.6 Further Reading 268

9 Word Order and Related Syntactic Phenomena 269
9.1 Sentence-Level Word Order 269
9.1.1 Noncanonical Word Orders Cross-Linguistically and in Second Language Acquisition 273
9.1.2 Processing Instruction Studies on the Comprehension of Non-Canonical Word Orders 275
9.2 Adjective Ordering 281
9.2.1 Adjective Ordering in Linguistic Theory and in Second Language Acquisition 282
9.2.2 Intervention Studies with Adjective Ordering 283
9.3 Relative Clauses 284
9.3.1 Relative Clauses in Linguistics and in Second Language Acquisition 285

9.3.2 Intervention Studies on Relative Clauses and the Noun Phrase Accessibility Hierarchy in English as a Second Language 286
9.3.3 Intervention Studies on English Relative Clauses, and the Role of Learner Output 288
9.3.4 Intervention Studies with Japanese Relative Clauses 291
9.4 Quantifier Scope 292
9.4.1 Quantifier Scope: Linguistic Background and Terminology 293
9.4.2 Second Language Acquisition and Intervention Studies with Quantifier Scope 294
9.5 Summary and Implications 298
9.6 Discussion Questions 299
9.7 Applications Questions 299
9.8 Further Reading 300

10 Where to Go Next 301
10.1 Efficacy of Different Instructional Approaches 302
10.1.1 Efficacy of Explicit Output-Based Instruction 303
10.1.2 Efficacy of Implicit Instruction 305
10.1.3 Efficacy of Structured Input and Input Processing Instruction 306
10.1.4 Efficacy of Different Feedback Types 308
10.1.5 Summary 308
10.2 Intervention Research and Linguistic Representations 309
10.2.1 The Role of the First Language 309
10.2.2 Linguistic Theory and Intervention Research 312
10.3 Suggestions for Future Research 318
10.3.1 Issues of Scope, Generalizability, and Study Length 318
10.3.2 Nature of Intervention Activities 320
10.3.3 New Technologies 321
10.4 Conclusion 323
10.5 Further Reading 324
