

Table of Contents

Foreword and Acknowledgements	5
Abbreviations	11
Note on Language Use	13
Introduction	17
Continuity with recent researches	22
The aim of the book and its structure	25
The characteristics of the investigated towns	29
Brno	29
Olomouc	32
Moravská Ostrava and Vítkovice	34
Prostějov	37
Znojmo	39
Jihlava	40
I. The Moravian Compromise of 1905	43
The national-political situation in Cisleithanian Moravia	43
Genesis of the Compromise	47
Period reflection of the Moravian Pact	58
The followers of the Moravian Pact: Other settlements	63
II. Educational and electoral systems in
 Moravia: Legislation and its ethnicization	69
Enrolment of children in Volksschulen and Bürgerschulen	69
From the time Lex Perek took effect	73

From Marchet's implementing regulation	75
From the landmark ruling of the VGH at the end of 1910	80
Members of school boards	93
Voters and elected deputies	98
The problem of determining nationality	103
The change of the situation after the creation of the Czechoslovakia	105
 III. Volkschulen and their pupils. New organisation of the educational system in the process of the ethnicization of Moravian society	 111
"Defence" unions: A new player on the scene of the fight for the child	123
Implementation of Lex Perek	135
Marchet's regulation: Time for exceptions to the rule	141
The impact of the repeal of the part of Marchet's regulation on the implementation of Lex Perek	153
The struggle over school	164
Repercussions of the Moravian Compromise in the interwar struggle for the child in mixed-language cities in Moravia	168
Excursion: Preschool education in the context of national agitation ..	175
 IV. Elections and election campaigning in Moravia before and after the Moravian Compromise	 187
Before the introduction of nationally-separated constituencies and with limited suffrage (until 1896)	189
Imperial Council election of 1897: Still nationally undivided constituencies, but with a partial extension of suffrage	192
After the Moravian Compromise	197
Composition of voter lists	200
Provincial Diet elections of 1906 and 1913 – campaigning strategies, results	209

Imperial elections of 1907 and 1911	226
Czech constituencies	227
German constituencies	232
Conclusion	236
 V. Actors in the Moravian Compromise and the Second Moravian Compromise	 243
 Conclusion: Who is who as the basic problem	 269
 References	 285
Archival Sources	285
Daily and Weekly Newspapers	286
Other Printed Sources	287
 List of Tables and Maps	 307
 Index	 309
Name index	309
Index of places	312