Barbara Azzolini is a Research Fellow at the Research Institute for the Evaluation of Public Policies of the Bruno Kessler Foundation (Italy) and an affiliated scholar at the Urban Institute (USA). Her main research interests include student achievement, migrant education, public policy analysis, and program evaluation. His research has been published in peer-reviewed journals such as Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Science, Journal of Ethnic and Migration Studies, and Demographic Research.

Oliver Bakewell is Reader in Migration Studies at the Global Development Institute (GDI), University of Manchester (UK). His work focuses on the intersections between migration and mobility and processes of development and change, with a focus on Africa. Before joining GDI, he was based at the International Migration Institute at the University of Oxford, after working for many years as a researcher and practitioner with a range of development and humanitarian NGOs.

Susan Bell is Senior Lecturer and member of the research group TransCrit at the University Paris 8 (France) since 1999. She has published in international journals on migration and divided societies, and visual sources, with an emphasis on mixed methodologies deployed in collaborative research by practitioners, researchers, and migrants.
