

'Impressive... focuses less on geography writ large and more on the thin lines that delineate one nation from another and could present a threat of future conflict' Financial Times

'Engaging and informative' Irish Times

How are borders built in the modern world? How is technology escalating border conflict? And what would happen if Elon Musk declared himself president of the Moon?

In Border Wars, Professor Klaus Dodds takes us on a journey into the geopolitical conflict of tomorrow, in an eye-opening tour of the world's best-known, most dangerous and most unexpected border conflicts, from the Gaza Strip to the space race.

Along the way, we'll discover just what borders mean today, and how they help us understand both our political past and our diplomatic future.

penguin.co.uk

ISBN 978-1-52910-261-1

9 781529 102611

9 00000

£12.99

Geopolitics
Ebury Press

Cover design by Estuary English

INTRODUCTION

vii

CHAPTER 1: Border Matters	1
CHAPTER 2: Moving Borders	37
CHAPTER 3: Watery Borders	59
CHAPTER 4: Vanishing Borders	93
CHAPTER 5: No Man's Land	117
CHAPTER 6: Unrecognised Borders	145
CHAPTER 7: Smart Borders	171
CHAPTER 8: Out of This World	193
CHAPTER 9: Viral Borders	219
Afterword	241
Further Reading	251
Acknowledgements	261
Index	263