

"As wide-ranging, imaginative, and revealing as the maps they discuss, these essays follow the trace laid down by the editors and William Rankin's magisterial opening essay. They track how maps—interpreted broadly—convey time as well as space. GIS, they contend, has not rendered old paper maps obsolete as much as revealed their wonders—their dynamism, their depth, their metaphors, their techniques, and their connections to not only a physical world but to other intellectual endeavors. They convey the magic not only of maps but of scholarship."

Richard White, Stanford University

"What a relief to move beyond the worn dichotomy between maps and timelines, geography and history! Time in Maps shows definitively that maps brim with temporal references, both overt and subtle. They represent moments that range from one protest march to centuries of slavery, or a year's erosion along Cape Cod to the deep time of geological eons. Cartographers' visual strategies include encodings of time as much as symbolic representations of objects in space. Contrary to popular opinion, printed maps are anything but 'static' once one learns to recognize how they in fact hold time in the embrace of space. Time in Maps is a wonderful book, and one that is long overdue."

Anne Kelly Knowles, University of Maine

THE UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO PRESS
www.press.uchicago.edu

ISBN-13: 978-0-226-71859-0

ISBN-10: 0-226-71859-X

PRINTED IN CANADA

Foreword by Abby Smith Rumsey ix

Acknowledgments xiii

Introduction: Maps Tell Time 1

:: Caroline Winterer and Kären Wigen

1 Mapping Time in the Twentieth (and Twenty-First)
Century 15

:: William Rankin

PART I
Pacific Asia

35

2 Orienting the Past in Early Modern Japan 37

:: Kären Wigen

3 Jesuit Maps in China and Korea:
Connecting the Past to the Present 63

:: Richard A. Pegg

PART II
The Atlantic World

77

4 History in Maps from the Aztec Empire 79

:: Barbara E. Mundy

5 Lifting the Veil of Time: Maps, Metaphor, and Antiquarianism in the Seventeenth and Eighteenth Centuries 103

:: Veronica Della Dora

6 A Map of Language 127

:: Daniel Rosenberg

PART III
The United States

147

7 The First American Maps of Deep Time 149

:: Caroline Winterer

8 How Place Became Process: The Origins of
Time Mapping in the United States 171

:: Susan Schulten

9 Time, Travel, and Mapping the Landscapes of War 193

:: James R. Akerman

Contributors 219

Index 221