

Contents

Preface	v
Acknowledgments	xii
List of Figures	xiv
List of Tables	xvi
1. Framing the Nature of the Study of Public Administration: Origins, Identity Crises, Maturity, and Conceptual Mapping	1
2. Science or Wissenschaft ? The Study of Public Administration among the Three Branches of Learning	40
3. Public Administration and the Fragmentation of its Knowledge Sources: Academic Specialties and Disciplines, Organizational Units, and Societal Organizations	74
4. Substantive Topics and Comprehensive Conceptual Maps of Public Administration	103
5. Bogey Man, Doctor's Bag, and/or Artist's Medium: The Dynamic Arena of PA-Theory	127
6. Four Intellectual Traditions in the Study of Public Administration	149
7. Public Administration's Canon(s) of Integration	176
8. Intellectual Challenges in and to the Study of Public Administration	203
Bibliography	220
Author Index	255
Subject Index	261