

'Being above — using aircraft to loiter within the atmosphere or on the edge of space — has long been recognised as a definitive means of gaining military and strategic advantage over those bound by the earth's surface. The last century has witnessed countless episodes of annihilation and killing by states and militaries from up in the sky. But how can we approach the deep connections between verticality, violence and war? From Above — a dazzling and definitive collection — provides the answers. Bringing together the very best thinkers from Geography, Cultural Studies, Art Theory and Political Science, the result is an extraordinary and searing book. Here, for the first time, is a volume which fully excavates how targeting and killing from above was invented, generalised and rendered completely normal in the past century and a half. A must-read for anyone concerned with the nature of contemporary political violence.' — Stephen Graham, Professor of Cities and Society, School of Architecture, Planning and Landscape, Newcastle University

'Packed with historical knowledge and theoretical insights, this collection opens our eyes to the metaphors and technologies embedded in the most ordinary expressions such as above, below, depth, flight, earth, and sky. In chapter after chapter, the aerial view presents itself not only as a militaristic space and a geopolitical theatre but also — and above all — as a conceptual event in modernity.' — Rey Chow, author of *Entanglements, or Transmedial Thinking about Capture

'From Above is a remarkable collection of essays on an important and neglected topic. The chapters range across time and space, covering a great deal of terrain and building up a multi-layered account of empirical and historical detail. The collection as a whole develops a new theoretical vocabulary to thinking about the politics and geographies of the vertical.' — Stuart Elden, Professor of Political Theory and Geography, University of Warwick

'Bombings and assassinations meet with surveys and cartography in this collection of critically engaged essays on the combined force of aerial knowledge and aerial power. Offering a much-needed counter to the official line on air power, the volume spells out the extent to which reconnaissance and violence operate in tandem — from above.' — Mark Neocleous, Professor of the Critique of Political Economy, Politics and History, Brunel University

HURST & COMPANY, LONDON
www.hurstpublishers.com

Cover design: © Fatima Jamadar
Cover image: Christopher Perkins 'In the Cat's Blister', FA03029, 1941 © RAF Museum

ISBN 978-1-84904-299-4

9 781849 042994 >

Editors and Contributors

vii

List of Images

ix

Introduction: Visual Culture and Verticality

Peter Adey, Mark Whitehead and Alison J. Williams

1

SECTION ONE

SCIENCE, MILITARISM AND DISTANCE

1. The Balloon Prospect: Aerostatic Observation and the Emergence of Militarised Aeromobility Caren Kaplan 19
2. Lines of Descent Derek Gregory 41
3. Aerial Surveying, Geopolitical Competition and the Falkland
Islands and Dependencies Aerial Survey Expedition
(FIDASE 1955–7) Klaus Dodds 71
4. Networks, Nodes and De-Territorialised Battlespace:
The Scopic Regime of Rapid Dominance Martin Coward 95
5. Photomosaics: Mapping the Front, Mapping the City
Paul K. Saint-Amour 119

SECTION TWO

AERIAL AESTHETICS, DISTORTION AND THE VIEW FROM BELOW

6. 'Concealing the Crude': Airmindedness and the Camouflaging of Britain's Oil Installations, 1936–9 James Robinson 145

CONTENTS

7. Flying into the Unknown: Cinematic Cultures of War and the Aesthetics of Disappearance John Armitage 163
8. Project Transparent Earth and the Autoscropy of Aerial Targeting: The Visual Geopolitics of the Underground Ryan Bishop 185
9. AFP-731 or The Other Night Sky: An Allegory Trevor Paglen 203

SECTION THREE FROM CLOSE TO REMOTE

10. The Pain of Love: The Invention of Aerial Surveillance in British Iraq Priya Satia 223
11. Targeting Affective Life From Above: Morale and Airpower Ben Anderson 247
12. Ecologies of the Wayward Drone Jordan Crandall 263
13. Satellite Images, Security and the Geopolitical Imagination David Campbell 289
- Notes* 299
- Index* 363