

TABLE OF CONTENTS

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS	ix
1. METHODOLOGICAL REMARKS	1
1.1. Conventional facts	1
1.2. Mutual beliefs	9
1.3. Methodological individualism and non-individualism	20
2. GAME THEORY AND MUTUAL BELIEFS	30
2.1. The role of games	30
2.2. The unpredictability of human action	33
2.3. Prisoners' Dilemma	39
2.4. Games and conventions	43
3. AN EXAMPLE: MONEY	51
4. THE CONCEPT OF AUTHORITY	60
4.1. Authority and legitimacy	60
4.2. Authority and power	72
4.3. The conventionalist notion of authority	77
5. AUTHORITY AND COORDINATION	80
5.1. Simon's theory	80
5.2. Authority and the problem of "the balance of reasons"	82
5.3. Arguments against the conventionalist theory of authority	93

6. THE FOUNDATIONS OF LEGAL SYSTEMS	105
6.1. Hobbes' problem	106
6.2. Hobbes' logic and Natural Law theories	115
6.3. The positivistic theories	121
6.4. Ross and the problem of self-referring norms	128
7. CONVENTIONALISM AND LAW	134
7.1. Hart's theory of human nature	134
7.2. The nature of obligation	141
7.3. A note on "obligation"	146
7.4. Primary and secondary rules	150
7.5. Meta-rules	154
8. EFFICACY AND OBLIGATION	167
8.1. Efficacy	167
8.2. What is accepted?	174
8.3. Obligation and the functionalist claim	177
9. THE ROLE OF FORCE	185
9.1. The State and force	185
9.2. The Zero-sum position	187
9.3. The Consensualist position	189
9.4. The Prisoners' Dilemma position	191
9.5. Conventionalism and force	198
10. CONCLUSIONS	208
BIBLIOGRAPHY	214
INDEX OF NAMES	227