

TABLE OF CONTENTS

PREFACE	xiii
----------------	-------------

PRESENTATION

1.	Introduction	1
2.	Meanings of 'Reason'	1
3.	Reason as a Theoretical Faculty	2
4.	Reason as a Practical Faculty	4
	a) The practical and the theoretical realm 4 / b) The normative and the motivational function of reason 6
5.	Overview	9

PART I. REASONS FOR ACTION: CONCEPTUAL ISSUES

CHAPTER I: REASONS FOR ACTION – FIRST PART

1.	Introduction	13
2.	Action	14
3.	Rules Defining Generic Actions and the Identification of Individual Actions	15
4.	Two Classes of Actions: Normative and Non-Normative Actions	17
5.	The Structure of Actions	22
6.	The Motivation of Action	26
7.	Reasons for Action	31
	a) Reasons: Desires or beliefs? 32 / b) Reasons: Internal or external? 33 / Reasons: Explanatory or justificatory? 37

CHAPTER II: REASONS FOR ACTION – SECOND PART

1.	Introduction	43
2.	Explanation and Justification	44

3.	Explanation and Justification as Illocutionary Acts	47
	a) The internal aspect 48 / b) The external aspect 50
4.	Statements Explaining an Action	51
5.	Statements Justifying an Action	53
6.	A Special Kind of Reason-Giving Statements?	58
	a) Non-teleological explanatory statements 58 / b) Statements giving reasons for future action 61

CHAPTER III: PRACTICAL ARGUMENTS. REASONS AS PREMISES

1.	Introduction	65
2.	Theoretical and Practical Arguments	65
	a) The criterion of the conclusion 66 / b) The pragmatic criterion 69 / c) The criterion of the type of relation 70
3.	Practical Arguments: Different Meanings and Uses	72
	a) First Distinction 72 / b) Second distinction 73
4.	Practical Arguments in the Logical Sense	75
	a) Deductive patterns 75 / b) The logic of satisfaction and the logic of satisfactoriness 83
5.	Practical Arguments as Models of Theoretical Reconstruction	85
	a) A model for the reconstruction of intentional action 85 / b) A model for the explanation of intentional action 86 / c) A model for the reconstruction of the concept of duty 87 / d) A model for the process of the resolution of conflicts between reasons 88
6.	The Practical Argument as a Normative Model	89
	a) Application of the model 91 / b) Validity 92 / c) Premise-reasons and reasons for action 93

PART II. REASONS FOR ACTION IN LEGAL ANALYSIS

CHAPTER IV: NORMS AND REASONS FOR ACTION

1.	Introduction	97
2.	Some Concepts of Norms and the Conditions for Their Existence	98
3.	The Practical Nature of Ought-Statements	100
	a) Internalism 101 / b) Externalism 104 / c) Evaluation 106
4.	The Normativity of Duty-Imposing Laws	108
5.	Two Examples in Legal Theory	110
6.	Reasons as Tools for the Conceptual Analysis of Legal Norms	120

CHAPTER V: THE ACCEPTANCE OF NORMS AND REASONS FOR ACTION

1.	Introduction	123
2.	The General Idea of Acceptance	124
	a) Acceptance and belief 124 / b) Acceptance, simulation and assumption 128
3.	Accepting a Norm	130
	a) Acceptance and internalization 130 / b) Moral and strategic reasons for acceptance 132
4.	Acceptance and Reasons for Action	133
	a) Norm-acceptance and explanatory reasons 133 / b) Norm-acceptance and justificatory reasons 134
5.	Acceptance as a Condition for the Existence of a Legal System	139
6.	Conclusions	144

CHAPTER VI: LEGAL JUSTIFICATION AND REASONS FOR ACTION

1.	Introduction	147
2.	The General Idea of Justification	147
3.	Justifying a Judicial Decision	148
4.	Justifying the Conclusion of a Judicial Decision	151
5.	Justifying the Normative Premises of a Judicial Decision	157
6.	The Principle of the Unity of Practical Reasoning	164
	a) Different interpretations of the principle of unity 165 / b) The foundation of the meta-ethical principle of unity 170
7.	Conclusions	173

CHAPTER VII: FINAL REMARKS 175BIBLIOGRAPHY 181INDEX OF NAMES 191