

© MathieuRivrin/Moment/Getty Images

Contents

Foreword

Preface

Acknowledgments

About the Editors

Contributors

Chapter 1 An Overview of Health Care Management

Jon M. Thompson, Sharon B. Buchbinder, Nancy H. Shanks, and Bobbie Kite

Introduction

The Need for Managers and Their Perspectives

Management: Definition, Functions, and Competencies

Management Positions: The Control in the Organizational Hierarchy

Focus of Management: Self, Unit/Team, and Organization

Role of the Manager in Establishing and Maintaining Organizational Culture

Role of the Manager in Talent Management

Role of the Manager in Strategic Planning and Strategy Development

Role of the Manager in Ensuring High Performance

Role of the Manager in Ensuring a Positive Patient Experience

Role of the Manager in Leadership Development and Succession Planning

Role of the Manager in Innovation and Change Management

Role of the Manager in Health Care Policy

Opportunities for Research on Health Care Management

Conclusion

Chapter 2 Leadership

Louis Rubino

Leadership vs. Management

History of Leadership in the U.S.

Contemporary Models

Leadership Styles

Leadership Competencies

Leadership Protocols

Governance

Barriers and Challenges

Ethical Responsibility

Important New Initiatives

Leaders Looking to the Future

Opportunities for Research on Health Care Leadership

Conclusion

Chapter 3 Management and Motivation

Nancy H. Shanks

Introduction

Motivation—the Concept

History of Motivation

A Bit More About Incentives and Rewards

Why Motivation Matters

Motivated vs. Engaged—Are the Terms the Same?

Measuring Engagement

Misconceptions About Motivation and Employee Satisfaction

Motivational and Engagement Strategies

Motivating Across Generations

Managing Across Generations

Opportunities for Research on Management and Motivation

Conclusion

Chapter 4 Organizational Behavior and Management Thinking

Sheila K. McGinnis

Introduction

The Field of Organizational Behavior

Organizational Behavior's Contribution to Management

Key Topics in Organizational Behavior

Organizational Behavior Issues in Health Organizations

Thinking: The “Inner Game” of Organizational Behavior

The Four Key Features of Thinking

Mental Representation: The Infrastructure of Thinking

Processing Information: Fundamental Thinking Habits

Decision Making, Problem Solving, and Biased Thinking Habits

Social Cognition and Socio-Emotional Intelligence

Social Categorization and Biases