

Contents

List of contributors

ix

Introduction. Contesting Europe: the origins of populist anti-Europeanism

ANDREA GUISO AND DANIELE PASQUINUCCI

1

PART 1

Historicising populist Euroscepticism

7

1 Distinct but converging: historicising populist Euroscepticism

9

DANIELE PASQUINUCCI

2 European integration and democratic legitimacy: a historical assessment of the institutional and economic roots of populist Euroscepticism

19

ANDREA GUISO

3 Euroscepticism from a historical viewpoint: the need for further definition and a brief periodisation

33

ANTONIO VARSORI

PART 2

The historical roots of Brexit

43

4 British nationalism and Brexit

45

MARK GILBERT

5 Euroscepticism and Populism: the UK Labour Party since 1945

56

WILLIAM KING

- 6 Brexit and Margaret Thatcher's Eurosceptic legacy 67
DOMENICO MARIA BRUNI AND LAURA CHIARA CECCHI

PART 3

- France and Germany: the old couple in the face of populist Euroscepticism 77

- 7 The French Communist Party facing the European Defense Community (1950–1954): between propaganda, ideology and populism 79
MARTIAL LIBERA

- 8 From "Front" to "Rassemblement National": radical right populist Euroscepticism in France 91
NICOLA GENGA

- 9 Something new on the German Front: the Alternative für Deutschland and Europe 107
FEDERICO NIGLIA

PART 4

- National varieties of populist Euroscepticism 119

- 10 The construction of a Dutch Eurosceptic tradition by contemporary populist political parties 121
ROBIN DE BRUIN

- 11 Euroscepticism and Vox: is it the end of Spanish exceptionalism? 133
MARIA ELENA CAVALLARO AND GIORGIA PRIORELLI

- 12 "Against the hegemony of Brussels": the anti-Europeanism of right-wing political parties in Poland 148
JOANNA SONDEL-CEDARMAS

- 13 Following the benefits. Utilitarian attitudes towards the European Union: evidence from three Central and Eastern European countries 166
MARCO MORINI AND PETER PLENTA

PART 5

Italy and Europe: from consensus to disenchantment 183

- 14 Between old-style nationalism and political realism: Italy's diplomatic resistance to the process of European integration between 1945 and 1957 185

GERARDO NICOLOSI

- 15 Is the lira to blame? The European monetary “Snake” and the emergence of Italian anti-Europeanism 194

LUCREZIA RANIERI

- 16 Populism and Euroscepticism in Italy: outlining the historical roots of a long-standing interplay 204

GIOVANNI DE GHANTUZ CUBBE

- 17 Populism, populists, European democracies and European Union: the Italian case 217

MARC LAZAR

- Index 229*