

contents

---

chapter 1	Understanding International Relations	1
	A Selective Tour of International Relations: Libya, Chernobyl, and the Philippines	2
	Analyzing Contemporary International Relations	7
	Frameworks for Understanding	12

part one

---

The Participants' Framework:
Actors and Interests in International Politics		15
chapter 2	The Nation-State and the National Interest	17
	The Meaning of State, Nation, and Nation-State	18
	The Evolution of the Nation-State to 1870	20
	The Evolution of the Nation-State: 1870 to Today	23
	The National Interest	28
	Nation-States and the Level of Analysis Problem	32
	The Nation-State and the "Balance of Power"	35
	Challenges to the Nation-States	40
chapter 3	International Governmental Organizations: The United Nations and Other State-created Organizations	49

The Structure and Function of Modern IGOs	50
The Evolution of IGOs	52
The United Nations and Its Related Organizations	55
Other IGOs: An Overview	65
The Future of IGOs	69

chapter 4 Multinational Corporations 73

An Overview of Multinational Corporations	75
Size, Centralization, and MNCs	80
MNCs and Nation-States: Sovereignty at Bay?	83
MNCs as World Citizens: Claims and Counterclaims	87

chapter 5 Nongovernmental Organizations, Individuals, and Other International Actors 91

Individuals in International Affairs	93
Ethnic/National Liberation Organizations	95
Terrorist Groups and Movements	97
Transnational Religious Movements and Groups	99
Transnational Political Parties and Movements	102
Nongovernmental Organizations (NGOs)	103

chapter 6 The Actors and the System: The East-West and North-South Conflicts 109

The East-West Conflict	110
The North-South Conflict	129
North and South and East and West	143

part two

The Perceptual Framework: Varying Views of the Global Community	149
--	-----

chapter 7 Perceptions and Politics in International Affairs 153

The Role of Perceptions in International Affairs	154
Case Studies: Vietnam and Afghanistan	156
Nonstate Actors and Perceptions	163

chapter 8 The American Outlook 169

Roots of the American Self-Image	170
America as a Superpower: The American Self-Image During the Cold War, 1945–1969	175
America Reassesses Itself, 1969–1980	180
The Reagan Years, 1981–1988	186
American Views of the World: Other Actors	195
Net Assessment	205

chapter 9 The Soviet Outlook 209

- The Russians and Their History 210
- Marx and Lenin on Ideology and Revolution 213
- The Evolution of the Soviet Worldview 218
- The Soviet's View of the World: Other Actors 226
- The Soviet Union and the Evolving International System 236
- Net Assessment 246

chapter 10 Outlooks East and West: The Perceptions of the Allies of the Superpowers 251

- Eastern Europe 253
- Western Europe 264
- Japan 277
- Canada 288
- Israel 290
- Conclusions 296

chapter 11 The Chinese Outlook 299

- China and History: The Three Eras—and the Beginning of a Fourth? 302
- The Maoist and Post-Maoist Worldview 309
- China's Views of the Actors 311
- China and the Future: An Overview 320

chapter 12 Outlooks from the Third World 325

- Unity in Diversity: A Colonial Past, Sharply Divided Classes, and Economic Underdevelopment and Poverty 326
- Selected Third World States and Their Outlooks 334
- The Third World in Perspective 344

part three

---

The Instrumental Framework: The Tools of Power in International Relations 347

chapter 13 Power 349

- Views of Power 349
- Relational and Contextual Aspects of Power 353
- Constituents of Power 355
- Conclusions 362

chapter 14 Economic Parameters of Power 365

- Theoretical Perspectives 366
- International Trade and Monetary Policy Since World War II 374

Views of the International Economic System	385
Power and Economic Capabilities	391

chapter 15 Military Parameters of Power 395

Nuclear Weapons and World Politics	397
Conventional Weapons in a Nuclear World	408
Arms Control: Naive Futility or Humanity's Last Chance?	418
Military Capabilities of Nonstate Actors	427
Power and Military Capabilities	431

chapter 16 Sociopolitical Parameters of Power 435

Sociopolitical Components of Power: An Overview	436
Internal Sociopolitical Factors	439
External Sociopolitical Factors	445
Sociopolitical Capabilities and Power	447

chapter 17 International Law as a Constraint on Power 449

The Evolution of International Law	450
Basic Concepts of International Law	452
Sovereignty, Statehood, and the Law of War	455
Alternate Views of International Law	457
International Law and Power	461

part four

---

The Argumentative Framework: Issues of International Politics 465

chapter 18 The Global Standard of Living 467

Population and Food	468
Development and Wealth	476
Resources and Environment	485
The Global Standard of Living: Limits to Growth or Limitless Growth?	500

chapter 19 War, Peace, and Violence 503

The Causes of International Conflict	508
Typologies of International Conflict	512
Toward Peace and Stability	520

chapter 20 Conflicts of Values 525

Individualism Versus Collectivism	526
Materialism Versus Spiritualism	528
Modernization Versus Traditionalism	530
Centralization Versus Decentralization	532
Moral Value Versus Opposed Moral Value	534
Conflicts of Values and World Order	536

part five

---

The Evolution of the International System 539

chapter 21    Toward 2000 541

Present-Day Actors Under Assault 542

The International Economic System in Turmoil 543

The Widening and Accelerating Arms Race 544

Scientific and Technical Changes—Their Potential to Revolutionize International Affairs 546

Resurgent Conflicts of Values 548

Challenges for 2000 549

index 551