

Contents

Acknowledgements	vii
Introduction	1
1. Sources of Information	1
2. Plan of the Book	4
3. The Approach Taken towards Capital Punishment	6
1. The Abolitionist Movement: Progress and Prospects	9
1. The Pace of Abolition	9
2. Generating the New Wave of Abolition	18
3. What Prospects for International Acceptance or Rejection of Capital Punishment?	32
2. In the Vanguard of Abolition	40
1. Western Europe and Australasia: Death Penalty Free Zones	40
2. Eastern Europe: Embracing Abolition	50
3. States of the Former Soviet Union: From Moratoria to Abolition De Jure	53
4. South and Central America: Long-term Supporters of Abolition	61
3. Where Capital Punishment Remains Contested	66
1. The Middle East and North Africa: Cracks in the Bastion?	66
2. Africa South of the Sahara: Resistance to Abolition Crumbling?	73
3. Asia and the Pacific: Opening up the Issue	84
4. The Caribbean: Colonial Legacies	103
5. North America: Faltering Support	111
4. The Scope of Capital Punishment in Law	129
1. Offences Punishable By Death	129
2. The Scale of Death Sentences and Executions	146

5. The Death Penalty in Reality: The Process of Execution and the Death Row Experience	155
1. Executing those found to be Guilty	155
2. Under Sentence of Death	172
3. Conclusion	186
6. Excluding the Vulnerable from Capital Punishment	187
1. Juvenile Defendants	187
2. The Question of the Aged	194
3. The Exemption of Pregnant Women	195
4. The Status of the Mentally Retarded	196
5. Protection of the Insane and Severely Mentally Ill	203
6. Conclusion	214
7. Protecting the Accused and Ensuring Due Process	215
1. International Standards	215
2. Ensuring a Fair Trial	217
3. The Right to Appeal	250
4. The Right to Seek a Pardon, Clemency, or Commutation of Sentence	257
5. Finality of Judgment: Awaiting the Outcome of Legal Proceedings	264
6. Wrongful Convictions and Innocent Persons Exonerated	266
7. Conclusions	276
8. Deciding Who Should Die: Problems of Inequity, Arbitrariness, and Racial Discrimination	278
1. Mandatory or Discretionary?	278
2. Legal Analyses: The American Experience	287
3. Criminological Investigations	299
4. Policy Implications	311
9. The Question of Deterrence	317
1. Reliance on the Deterrent Justification	317
2. Conceptual Issues: The Need for Clarification	321
3. General Deterrence in Context	322
4. Assessing Homicide Trends	325
5. The Comparative Method	329
6. Measuring the Immediate Impact	333

7. The Econometric Model	337
8. Methodological Problems in Measuring the Deterrent Effect	344
9. Implications for Policy	347
10. A Question of Opinion or a Question of Principle?	350
1. Public Opinion and the Politics of Abolition	350
2. The Nature of Public Opinion	358
3. Changing Public Opinion	366
4. Abolition and its Effect on Public Opinion	375
5. The Impact of Victims' Advocates on Support for the Death Penalty	378
6. A Question of Principle	381
11. The Challenge of a Suitable Replacement	383
1. The Nature of the Challenge	383
2. The Range of Alternative Penalties	385
3. The Ascendancy of Life Without Parole in America	388
4. Life Without Hope: The New Challenge to Human Dignity	392
5. Conditions of Confinement	395
6. The Challenge of Sentencing Juveniles Convicted of Murder	398
7. Implications for Policy	402
Appendices	404
1. Lists of Retentionist and Abolitionist Countries	404
2. Ratification of International Treaties	414
3. International Instruments	417
Bibliography	422
Cases Cited	455
Index	461