

CONTENTS

---

FOREWORD	xi
EDITOR'S INTRODUCTION	xv
PREFACE	xvii
ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS	xxi
 PART ONE TERRITORIES AND BOUNDARIES IN REGIONAL TRANSFORMATION	 1
1 REGIONAL TRANSFORMATION AND THE OTHER	3
1.1 Introduction	3
1.2 Regional transformation, the social construction of 'we' and the 'Other'	7
1.3 Aims of the book	15
2 TERRITORIES, BOUNDARIES AND THE DISCOURSE ON POLITICAL GEOGRAPHY	17
2.1 Changing spaces and geographies	17
2.2 The question of boundaries in geographical thought	23
2.3 Boundaries in the production of territories	27
2.4 The institutionalization of regions	31
3 TIME, SPACE AND CONSCIOUSNESS: CONSTRUCTING NATIONALISM AND COMMUNICATING BOUNDARIES	39
3.1 The national ideal	39
3.2 Social integration and spatial scales	42

3.3	The changing roles of nationalism	47
3.4	National socialization	54
3.5	National stereotypes and the Other	59
4	METHODOLOGICAL CONTEXTS	62
4.1	Socio-spatial consciousness	65
4.2	Towards local life	70
4.3	A methodological comment	74
PART TWO THE INSTITUTIONALIZATION OF THE FINNISH TERRITORY		77
5	NATIONALISM, GEOPOLITICS AND CHANGING TERRITORIES: THE CASE OF FINLAND	79
5.1	The rise of the Finnish state and nation	79
5.2	Economic and cultural integration	90
5.3	Towards independence	95
5.4	Territory and the ideological context between the World Wars	97
5.5	The Winter War (1939–40) as a territorial conflict	102
5.6	The Continuation War and the ideology of territorial expansion	107
5.7	The territorial, economic and socio-political consequences of World War II in Finland	113
5.8	Location on the ideological boundary of the Cold War: four discourses	120
6	THE CHANGING SOCIO-SPATIAL CONSCIOUSNESS	137
6.1	Representations of Finnishness and its 'systemic' basis	137
7	SIGNIFYING TERRITORIALITY: THE CHANGING ROLES OF THE FINNISH–RUSSIAN BOUNDARY	167
7.1	The Finnish–Russian boundary and civil society	167
7.2	Finnish geographers and the representation of the boundary	180
7.3	The Finnish–Russian boundary in geographical textbooks	191
7.4	Boundaries, religion and metaphors: an excursion	193

---

PART THREE TOWARDS LOCAL EXPERIENCE	201
8 PLACE, BOUNDARY AND THE CONSTRUCTION OF LOCAL EXPERIENCE	203
8.1 The local scale	203
9 REGIONAL TRANSFORMATION ON THE LOCAL SCALE: THE INSTITUTIONALIZATION OF VÄRTSILÄ	214
9.1 Rising spatial divisions of labour	216
9.2 The factory community and its social texture	226
9.3 Evacuation and ceding of the area	239
9.4 The territorial identification of the inhabitants	253
9.5 Territorial transformation and human generations	263
9.6 Living in the landscape of war and peace	267
9.7 Prisoners of space? Living in the frontier zone	270
9.8 Between the Eastern and Western worlds?	273
10 BACK TO KARELIA	276
10.1 The forms of utopia	276
10.2 The fulfilment and disappearance of the utopia	281
10.3 Back to Karelia: travelling into the past or into the present?	289
11 EPILOGUE: TOWARDS A GLOBAL SENSE OF PLACE	300
APPENDIX	311
REFERENCES	317
NAME INDEX	343
SUBJECT INDEX	349