

TABLE OF CONTENTS

List of figures	page	xiv
List of tables	xv
List of boxes	xvi
Series editors' preface	xvii
Acknowledgments	xix
Table of cases	xx
List of annexes	xxiii
Introduction	1
1 Is The constitution for Europe 'dead and buried'?	5
The ratification process of the Constitution	7
Analysis of the negative referenda in France and in the Netherlands	9
Factors which determined the results of the referenda and motivations of the voters	19
The Netherlands	19
France	20
Conclusion of the analysis	23
The experience of the two previous instances of negative referenda in Denmark and in Ireland	24
The case of Denmark	24
The case of Ireland	26
Comparison with the referenda in France and in the Netherlands	27
The continuation of the ratification process	28
The June 2005 Declaration on the ratification of the Constitution	28
What next?	30
The unavoidable questions on the shape of the 'European project'	32
2 The process that led to the Constitution	38
A short history of the idea of establishing a European Union	38
The political background which led to the Constitution	40

The European Convention which proposed the draft Constitution	45
The Intergovernmental Conference which approved the Constitution	49
The Working Party of Legal Experts of the IGC	50
3 Changes in structures and procedures	56
Simplifying the structures of the Union	57
One Treaty	57
One legal personality	60
One pillar	62
The existing 'pillar structure' of the Treaties	63
The effects of the removal of the 'pillar structure' by the Constitution	66
The jurisdiction of the Court of Justice	67
The application of the basic principles of EU law	67
The so-called 'flexibility clause'	68
The protection of personal data	69
The powers of the European Ombudsman by the European Parliament	69
The territorial scope of the Constitution	69
Privileges and immunities	70
Streamlining the instruments and the procedures of the Union	70
Streamlining the legal instruments adopted by the EU institutions	70
The 15 existing types of legal instruments	71
The six types of legal instruments in the Constitution	71
Streamlining the procedures followed by the institutions of the Union	73
The present rules on implementing powers ('comitology')	73
The new system of delegated and implementing powers in the Constitution	76
New rules by default in legislative matters and other streamlining of procedures	76
Codifying existing rules and principles of EU law	78
Classifying EU competences into three categories	78
The debate on the issue of division of competences and the solutions found	79
Codifying long-standing principles of EU law	82
The principle of primacy of EU law	82
The principle of conferral of competences	84
The principle of subsidiarity	85

The principle of proportionality	85
The principle of sincere cooperation	85
The principle of indirect administration	86
The principle of equality of Member States before the Constitution	86

4 Changes in the institutions 87

Adapting the institutions to an enlarged EU	87
Two more institutions: the European Council and the European Central Bank	87
Legal consequences of the European Council becoming an institution	88
Legal consequences of the European Central Bank becoming an institution	89
The institutions' powers and functioning	89
The European Parliament: more powers	90
Extension in the scope of codecision	90
Other cases of increase in the European Parliament's powers	90
The composition of the European Parliament	91
The European Council: a strengthened role	92
The new office of President of the European Council	92
The Council: a more legitimate decision-making and a Minister for Foreign Affairs	94
Extension in the coverage of Qualified Majority Voting (QMV)	94
A new QMV method	95
A short history of qualified majority voting in the Council	96
The debate on QMV in the Convention and in the IGC	102
Changes to the six-monthly rotating Presidency of the Council	105
The new office of Union Minister for Foreign Affairs	108
The Convention's failed attempt to create a 'legislative Council'	109
The Commission: streamlined and more efficient	110
The debate on the size and composition of the Commission in the Convention and in the IGC	112
Additional powers of the President of the Commission	113
The Court of Justice: an extended jurisdiction	113
More democracy: conferring increased rights on actors other than the EU institutions	115
The national Parliaments	116
A right of direct information from the EU institutions and a direct role in controlling respect for the principle of subsidiarity	116

Evaluation and scrutiny of certain activities in the field of Justice and Home Affairs	118
Active role in the simplified revision procedure of the Constitution	118
The Committee of the Regions	118
The EU's citizens	119
Establishing 'facilitating' mechanisms for a more flexible functioning of the EU	121
A modified 'enhanced cooperation' procedure	122
Cases of 'inbuilt closer cooperation'	123
The existing cases	123
The new case added by the Constitution: the 'permanent structured cooperation' in the field of defence	124
General and sectoral 'passerelles' to amend the Constitution	125
The existing 'passerelles' in the EU and EC Treaties	125
The new general 'passerelle' in the Constitution	125
The sectoral 'passerelles' in the Constitution	125
A general simplified revision procedure to amend Title III of Part III of the Constitution (on internal policies and competences)	127
Specific simplified revision procedure to amend certain provisions of the Constitution	127
Voluntary withdrawal from the EU	129
5 Changes in substance	131
Better protection for human rights and fundamental freedoms	134
Incorporation of the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the EU	134
A short history of fundamental rights in the EU	139
The way the Charter of Fundamental Rights is incorporated into the Constitution	141
Accession of the EU to the European Convention on Human Rights	143
Strengthening existing EU competences	145
Foreign policy(CFSP): new tools for a real foreign policy	145
A short history of CFSP in the EU	145
The innovations brought about by the Constitution	146
The merger into a single Title of all provisions on external action	147
The creation of the office of Union Minister for Foreign Affairs	147
The creation of the office of full-time President of the European Council	150

A timid opening towards more QMV in CFSP matters	150
The creation of an External Action Service	151
The Commission's general role in ensuring the Union's external representation, except for CFSP	153
Assessment of the new provisions	153
Defence (ESDP): further steps towards a more efficient policy	155
A short history of Defence in the EU	155
The innovations brought about by the Constitution	160
The clarification of the scope of EU crisis management tasks	161
The 'solidarity clauses'	161
The possibility of entrusting a group of Member States with an ESDP mission	162
The 'permanent structured cooperation'	162
The creation of a Defence Agency	164
The possibility of establishing a start-up fund for ESDP operations	164
Justice and Home Affairs (JHA): better decision-making, more competences and full judicial control	164
A short history of Justice and Home Affairs in the EU	165
The innovations brought about by the Constitution	168
QMV and codecision for asylum, immigration and external border controls	168
QMV and codecision for most provisions on criminal matters	168
A European Public Prosecutor's Office to protect the EU's financial interests	170
Specific procedures for improving the functioning and democratic control of JHA	170
Full judicial control	170
Keeping unanimity in a few very sensitive cases	171
Keeping the right of initiative of Member States	171
Assessment of the new provisions	171
Economic and monetary policy and the 'euro zone': improved decision-making	173
A short history of economic and monetary issues in the EU	173
The innovations brought about by the Constitution	174
Improved decision-making and representation for the euro zone	174
Improved decision-making in the area of economic and monetary policy	175
Public health: higher standards and better monitoring of threats	175
Social policy: a horizontal clause	175
Public services: a new legal basis	178

6	General Assessment	179
	Does the Constitution fulfil the Nice and Laeken mandates?	179
	The Nice mandate	179
	The delimitation of powers between the EU and the Member States	179
	The status of the Charter of Fundamental Rights	180
	The simplification of the Treaties	180
	The role of national Parliaments in the EU architecture	181
	The Laeken mandate	181
	A more democratic and transparent Union	181
	A more efficient Union	183
	The adoption of a 'constitutional text'	185
	Legal, economic and social assessments	186
	Legally, the Constitution is far from being a revolution	186
	The Constitution will not bring about major changes in the economic and social fields	188
	An important symbolic step from a political point of view	190
	Conclusion what will the final form of the union be?	192
	List of annexes	198
	Laeken Declaration on the Future of the European Union	198
	Existing legal bases switched to ordinary legislative procedure (codecision)	207
	Existing legal bases switched to qualified majority voting in the Council	211
	New legal bases	215
	New legal bases where QMV in the Council will apply	215
	New legal bases where unanimity in the Council will apply	217
	New legal bases where QMV in the European Council will apply	219
	New legal bases where unanimity in the European Council will apply	219
	New legal bases where consensus in the European Council will apply	221
	Existing legal bases where unanimity, common accord or consensus will continue to apply	222
	Existing legal bases where unanimity in the Council will continue to apply	222

Existing legal bases switched from QMV to unanimity in the Council	229
Existing 'passerelles' where unanimity in the Council will continue to apply	229
Existing legal bases where unanimity in the Council will continue to apply, followed by approval or adoption by Member States, in accordance with their constitutional requirements	229
Existing legal bases where unanimity in the European Council will continue to apply	231
Existing legal bases where common accord of the Member States will continue to apply	231
Table of equivalences between the provisions of the Treaty establishing a Constitution for Europe and the provisions of the EU and EC Treaties	232
List of 'passerelles' and provisions on a simplified revision procedure	249
Table of references	251
Index	257