

Contents

Acknowledgements	vii
1 Theoretical foundations	1
Models of SLA	2
The plan of the book	8
2 Methodological considerations	10
Questionnaire design and scale construction	10
Bivariate relationships	12
Multivariate statistics	16
3 Language aptitude	25
The development of aptitude batteries	25
Recent research on the origin of aptitude	31
Characterizing strengths and weaknesses	34
Critiques of language aptitude: a review	38
Language aptitude, SLA, and models of communicative competence	45
4 Motivation	49
A layman's approach to motivation	49
General psychological approaches to motivation	50
Specific motivations for language learning	52
The influence of motivation on language learning: a review of the issues	61
An evaluation of the role of motivation	70
5 Language learning strategies	73
Introduction	73
Earlier research	73
A comparison and evaluation of the earlier strategy research	79
Recent studies of learner strategies	83
Learner strategies: an evaluation	94
Learner strategies: conclusions	98

6 Additional cognitive and affective influences on language learning	100
Extroversion-introversion	100
Risk taking	106
Intelligence	109
Field independence and other cognitive abilities	111
Anxiety	115
7 Interactions	119
A framework for research on language learning	119
Aptitude-treatment interaction: cognitive influences	122
Aptitude-treatment interaction: affective/interpersonal influences	129
Conclusions: interaction studies	134
8 Conclusions and implications	136
Generalizations from individual difference studies	136
Individual differences and theory construction	141
Addition research	146
Conclusions	150
References	151
Indices	163