

CONTENTS

Chapter 1. Introduction: Rethinking State Socialization and International Human Rights Law	1
A. The Empirical Study of International Law	2
B. Objectives of the Project	6
C. Theorizing State Socialization	9
D. Advancing the Understanding of State Socialization	13
E. Outline of the Book	16

PART ONE: A Theory of Influence

Chapter 2. Three Mechanisms of Social Influence	21
A. Material Inducement	23
B. Persuasion	24
C. Acculturation	25
1. Acculturation as Incomplete Internalization: Distinguishing Persuasion	28
2. Acculturation as Social Sanctions and Rewards: Distinguishing Material Inducement	31
D. Illustration: Mechanisms of Influence in The Global Diffusion of Markets and Democracy	32
Chapter 3. Acculturation of States: The Theoretical Model	38
A. Socialization of the State	39
B. Acculturation and the Patterns of State Practice	41
1. Isomorphism across States	42
2. Decoupling within States	43
3. Global Integration Correlation	46
4. Social Networks Correlation	48
5. Institutionalization Correlation	49
6. Contagion Effects: Adoption by Other States as a Predictor of Subsequent Adoption	50

7. Lack of Correlation with Geopolitical Vulnerability or with Powerful States' Interests	51
8. Discerning the Process of Microacculturation: Qualitative Analysis and Case Studies	51
Chapter 4. Acculturation of States: The Empirical Record	53
A. Studies Outside of Human Rights	54
1. Environmental Policy and Public Education	54
2. Network Effects	58
B. Human Rights Studies	60
1. Constitutional Design	60
2. Substantive Rights Protections: Children's Rights and Women's Rights	65
3. Network Effects and Human Rights	68
4. Regional/"Neighborhood" Effects: Simmons's Mobilizing for Human Rights	70
C. Objections and Clarifications	74
1. Does Our Account Assume Acculturation Spreads Desirable Laws and Policies?	74
2. Could Material Inducements Provide an Equally Plausible Explanation of the Observed Behavior?	76
3. Is Global-Level Acculturation Driven by Hegemonic Interests?	80

PART TWO: Applications for International Human Rights Regime Design

Chapter 5. Conditional Membership: Socialization and Community

Delimitation	89
A. Material Inducement	96
B. Persuasion	99
C. Acculturation	101

Chapter 6. Precision of Legal Obligations: Socialization and Rule-Making

A. Material Inducement	112
B. Persuasion	113
C. Acculturation	116

Chapter 7. Monitoring and Enforcement: Socialization and Rule-Breakers

A. Material Inducement	125
B. Persuasion	126
C. Acculturation	129

PART THREE: Problems and Prospects of State Socialization

Chapter 8. State Acculturation and the Problem of Compliance	135
A. Acculturation without Decoupling	137
B. Acculturation with "Benign" or "Facilitative" Decoupling	139
C. Decoupling and "Deep" Reform	141
D. Moving beyond Decoupling: The Progression of Acculturation	144
1. Domestic Political Opportunity Structure	144
2. The "Civilizing Force of Hypocrisy" I: External Audience Effects	150
3. The "Civilizing Force of Hypocrisy" II: Internal "Audience" Effects	153
4. Escalating Demands by Global Civil Society	154
5. Evolutionary State Learning	156
6. The Causal Dispensability of Domestic Civil Society/NGOs	157
E. Managing Decoupling: Designing Institutions to Reduce the Gap	160
Chapter 9. Toward an Integrated Model of State Socialization	166
A. Taking Acculturation Seriously	167
B. Negative Interactions between Mechanisms	172
1. Conveyance of Prevalence Information	173
2. Overjustification and Social Signaling	174
3. Overjustification and Self-Perception	176
4. Overjustification and Self-Determination	177
5. "A Fine Is a Price"	178
C. Sequencing Effects	180
D. Conditions for Mechanism Success	182
1. Targeting Capacity and Target Actor Characteristics	183
2. Influence Agent Characteristics	184
Chapter 10. Conclusion: Taking Stock and Future Research	186
A. Our Major Empirical Claims	187
B. Our Major Normative Applications	188
C. Future Normative Work	189
D. Future Empirical Work	190

Bibliography	195
---------------------	-----

Index	221
--------------	-----