

CONTENTS

Foreword by Lord Mandelson viii

Acknowledgements xii

About the author xiii

Introduction – managing the unmanageable 1

01 The challenges of managing in the public sector 7

No single simple success measure 7

Democratic accountability 9

Pressure? 11

02 Managing accountability 15

Introduction – the unaccountable lack of accountability 15

Why is it so hard to be accountable in the public sector? 18

How to create accountability 23

Creating accountability in a partnership 39

Summary 41

03 Managing target setting 43

Introduction – to target or not to target 44

The consequences of bad targets 45

Why it is even harder to get targets right in the public sector 49

So what should you do about targets? 53

Further tips for setting targets and picking indicators 59

Summary 62

04 Managing politicians 65

Introduction – the challenges of arranged marriages 65

Some marriage guidance counselling 70

Summary 76

05 Managing people 79

Assessment and development – appraising the appraisal 80

Managing poor performance 90

Recruitment 98

Summary 103

06 Managing risk and innovation 107

Introduction – mitigating risk, stimulating innovation 107

Characteristics that stimulate risk aversion and mitigate innovation 109

Managing risk effectively 112

Innovation – or the lack of it 119

How to encourage innovation 120

Summary 126

07 Managing decision making 129

Introduction – public sector decision making 129

How to improve your decision making 130

Summary 148

08 What the private sector can learn from the public sector 151

The art of persuasion 153

Making complex decisions 156

Crisis management 157

09 Public sector managers and their public 161

The importance of good public sector management 161

The status of public sector managers 165

Backgammon versus chess – unfair comparisons with the private sector	167
High importance, (relatively) low status – does it matter?	171
Making the public sector more attractive – better status, better pay	173

Conclusion 177

Twenty-five key insights	183
Interviewee biographies	187
Index	197