

Detailed Contents

1	AI and Consumers	3
1.1	Introductory Remarks	3
1.2	Uncertainty about the Application of AI to Consumer Products and Markets	4
1.3	Uncertainty about the Legal Regulation of AI	5
1.4	Uncertainty around Enforcement of Consumer Law in AI Context	7
1.5	Conclusion	7
2	Artificial Intelligence for Consumers: Advances in Recommendation Systems	9
2.1	Introduction	9
2.2	Recommender Systems: Traditional Paradigms	10
2.2.1	Content-Based Recommenders	11
2.2.2	Collaborative Filtering Recommenders	12
2.2.3	Hybrid Recommenders	13
2.3	Deep Learning for Recommender Systems	13
2.4	Visual Recommendation	14
2.5	Conclusion	17
3	Substituted Consumers: Digital Content Directive and Damages	19
3.1	Introduction	19
3.2	Problem of Mistaken or Unintended Contracts	22
3.3	Problem of Fictitious or Fraudulent Merchants	24
3.4	Digital Content Directive (DCD) as a Remedy for the Substituted Consumer	25
3.4.1	Applicability of the DCD to Substituted-Consumer Services	26
3.4.2	Suitability of DCD for the Substituted-Consumer Marketplace	29
3.4.2.1	Assessing Compliance with the Objective Requirements of Conformity	29
3.4.2.2	Burden of Proof to the Existence of a Lack of Conformity	32
3.4.2.3	Exclusion of Liability Clauses	33
3.4.2.4	Liability Limitations for Intermediaries under the DSA	34
3.5	Conclusion	36

4	AI and Consumers' Well-Being	37
4.1	Introduction	37
4.2	What Is Well-Being?	37
4.2.1	Objective List Theories	38
4.2.1	Desire-Based Theory	38
4.2.3	Hedonism	39
4.3	Theories of Well-Being Applied to the Impact of AI on Consumers	40
4.3.1	Objective Values	40
4.3.1.1	Freedom	41
4.3.1.2	Security	41
4.3.1.3	Health	42
4.3.1.4	Knowledge	42
4.3.2	Desire-Based Theories	43
4.3.3	Hedonism	43
4.4	Conclusion	45
5	AI and Existing EU Consumer Law	49
5.1	Introduction	49
5.2	AI, a Blessing or a Curse?	49
5.3	Current Legal Framework	50
5.4	Road to Change?	53
5.4.1	Risk-Based Approach	55
5.4.2	GDPR and Consumer Law	55
5.4.3	Profiling and Credit Scoring	58
5.5	Conclusion	61
6	Using AI to Influence Consumer Choice	62
6.1	Introduction	62
6.2	Traditional Perspective	63
6.3	Art of the Deal	64
6.4	Dealing in the Digital Worlds	66
6.5	Legal Response to Dark Patterns	68
6.6	AI as the Perfect Salesperson	70
6.7	Conclusion	74
7	Consumers and Digital Delegates	75
7.1	Introduction: From Digital Assistants to Digital Delegates	75
7.2	Technology and Law: Methodology	77
7.3	Understanding the Technology	80
7.4	Identifying the Legal Issues of AI-Driven Digital Delegates	81
7.5	Contracts Concluded through Digital Delegates on Behalf of Consumers	83
7.5.1	Attributing Contracts Concluded through Digital Delegate to Consumer	83
7.5.2	Pre-deployment	86
7.5.3	Post-deployment: Intervention in Automated Process	87

7.5.4	General Post-deployment Controls	88
7.5.4.1	Options to Vary Parameters	88
7.5.4.2	Suspension or Deactivation	88
7.5.5	Consequences of Not Providing for Pre-conclusion Intervention	89
7.5.6	Post-conclusion Termination	90
7.5.7	Summary: Contracts Concluded through Digital Delegates	91
7.6	Challenges for Consumer Law	91
7.7	Contract for Provision of a Digital Delegate	93
7.8	Conclusion: What's Next for Digital Delegates?	95
8	AI and Smart Consumer Contracts	99
8.1	Meaning of 'Smart' in Smart Contracts	99
8.2	Challenges Posed by Smart Contracts	101
8.2.1	General Observations	101
8.2.2	Smart Consumer Contracts	103
8.3	AI-Enhanced SCs: A Challenge or Charm for Consumers	105
8.3.1	AI and Blockchain Convergence in Web 3.0	105
8.3.2	AI-Enhanced (Powered) SCs and Their Potential in Contracting	106
8.3.2.1	SC Formation Phase	107
8.3.2.2	Determination of the SC Content	108
8.3.2.3	Performance of SCs	109
8.4	AI-Enhanced SCs: Avoiding or Enhancing Consumer Protection?	109
8.4.1	Challenges of AI-Enhanced SCs for Consumers	110
8.4.2	AI Helping Consumers in Smart Consumer Contracts	110
8.4.2.1	Spotting Errors or Vulnerabilities in the SC Code	111
8.4.2.2	Change of Circumstances and Remedies	111
8.4.2.3	Standard Contract Terms in SCCs	112
8.4.2.4	Misleading Commercial Practices and SCCs	113
8.4.2.5	Information Requirements and SCCs	113
8.4.2.6	Right of Withdrawal and SCCs	114
8.4.2.7	Personalized Recommendations and SCCs	114
8.5	Conclusion	114
9	AI, Consumers and Tort Law: From Liability to Responsibility	116
9.1	Introduction	116
9.2	Industry 4.0, Risks and Regulation	117
9.3	Upgrading Tort Liability 2.0	119
9.3.1	New Product Liability Directive	119
9.3.2	AI Liability Directive	121
9.4	Facing Damages 4.0	124
9.5	Conclusion: Towards Responsibility 4.0	127

10	Liability for Autonomous Systems: Enhancing Access to Justice	129
10.1	Introduction	129
10.2	Definitions and Distinctions	130
10.2.1	Distinguishing Autonomous versus Non-autonomous AI Systems	130
10.2.2	Distinguishing between Different Stakeholders	131
10.3	Liability for Autonomous Systems in the EU	133
10.3.1	Comparative Law Study on Civil Liability for AI	133
10.3.2	Research and Commentaries on Civil Liability for AI	135
10.3.3	Proposal for a Regulation Laying Down Harmonised Rules on AI	136
10.3.4	JURI Recommendations on a Civil Liability Regime for AI	137
10.3.5	European Parliament Draft Proposal for a Regulation on Liability for the Operation of AI Systems	139
10.3.6	Proposal for a Directive on Liability for Defective Products and Proposal for a Directive on Adapting Non-contractual Civil Liability Rules to AI	141
10.4	A Way Forward?	142
10.4.1	Alternative Liability Regimes	142
10.4.2	Liability of Autonomous Systems?	143
10.5	Conclusion	146
11	Protected by Design: The Case of Personalised Advertising	147
11.1	Introduction	147
11.2	EU Consumer Data Protection and New Regulatory Initiatives	149
11.3	Personalised Advertising as a Case Study	150
11.4	Selected Constraints on Personalised Advertising	153
11.4.1	Data Protection Law: The Example of Lawfulness	153
11.4.2	Consumer Law: Unfair Commercial Practices and Platform Regulation	155
11.5	Protection by Design: Rethinking Personalisation in a Process-Oriented Approach	156
11.5.1	Data Protection by Design as a Requirement of Proactive Approach	156
11.5.2	Applying the Concept of Data Protection by Design to Personalised Advertising	157
11.6	Conclusion	160
12	AI, Consumers and Psychological Harm	163
12.1	Introduction	163
12.2	Psychological Harm in the AIA Proposal	164
12.3	What Could 'Psychological Harm' Mean?	168
12.4	AIA's Unfortunate Choice	171
12.5	The Future of AI, Psychological Harm and Law	173
12.6	Conclusion	174

13	Algorithmic Exploitation of Consumers	175
13.1	Introduction	175
13.1.1	Extreme Asymmetry	176
13.2	Extreme Personalization	177
13.3	Trusting Computers	179
13.4	Quasi Agents – of Whom?	180
13.5	Algorithmic Alignment	181
13.6	Legal and Regulatory “Solutions”	182
13.6.1	The Privacy Aspect	182
13.6.2	The Contractual Aspect	184
13.6.3	Unfair Commercial Practices Directive	186
13.6.4	Artificial Intelligence Act	187
13.6.5	Digital Services Act	190
13.7	Conclusion	191
14	Use of AI Enforcement Technology (EnfTech)	193
14.1	Introduction	193
14.2	Defining AI	195
14.3	Situating AI in the History of Technology-Based Consumer Enforcement Tools	197
14.4	Situating AI in the Enforcement Technology’s Normative Landscape	198
14.5	AI-Enabled Tools in the Consumer EnfTech Toolbox	200
14.5.1	Limitations and Risks of AI in Enforcement	200
14.5.2	AI Excellence in Performing Repetitive Tasks	201
14.6	AI Limitation: Need to Access Large Amounts of Good Quality Data	203
14.7	AI Limitation: Need for Consumer Enforcement Agencies to Be in Control	204
14.7.1	Accounting for EnfTech General Risks	204
14.7.2	Accounting for AI’s Specific Risks	206
14.8	Conclusion	210
15	EU Consumer Law and the Artificial Intelligence Act: Two Worlds Apart?	215
15.1	Introduction	215
15.2	AI in Consumer Markets: Risks for Consumers	217
15.3	AIA in a Nutshell	218
15.4	Prohibited Practices and Consumer Protection	220
15.4.1	Pre-emptive Effect?	221
15.4.2	Analyses of Prohibited Practices	222
15.4.2.1	Manipulation by Subliminal Techniques	222
15.4.2.2	Exploitation of Vulnerabilities	222
15.4.2.3	Social Scoring	223
15.4.3	Evaluation	224
15.5	Generative AI Systems and Consumer Protection	224
15.5.1	Generative AI in the Different Proposals	225
15.5.2	Evaluation	226

15.6	High-Risk AI Systems and Consumer Protection	227
15.6.1	Defining High-Risk AI Systems	227
15.6.2	Requirements for High-Risk AI Systems	228
15.6.3	Role of Harmonised Standards	229
15.6.4	Conformity Assessment Procedures	230
15.7	Low-Risk AI Systems and Consumer Protection	231
15.8	Enforcement, AIA and Consumer Protection	232
15.8.1	Ex Post Surveillance by Member States	232
15.8.2	Role of the European AI Office	232
15.8.3	Individual and Collective Remedies	233
15.9	Conclusion	234
16	AI Platforms: Safeguarding Consumer Rights in the EU	236
16.1	Introduction	236
16.2	AI-Powered Platforms and Consumers	237
16.3	Consumers' Freedom at Risk	239
16.4	Assessing the EU Legal Framework	240
16.5	EU AI Act	242
16.6	AI Platforms under the Digital Services Act	243
16.6.1	AI-Powered VLOPs	244
16.7	AI Platforms under EU Consumer Law	245
16.8	Overlapping Legal Regimes	246
16.8.1	AI Recommender Systems	247
16.8.2	Information and Disclosure Policies	248
16.9	Gaps and Inconsistencies	248
16.10	Conclusion	249
17	AI, Lawyers, and Consumers	252
17.1	Introduction	252
17.2	AI-Consumer Interface	254
17.2.1	Access to Justice and Legal Practice	254
17.2.2	Comparative Analysis of Law Practice across American and European Jurisdictions	256
17.3	Lawyers and Consumers: AI's Strengths and Costs	258
17.3.1	Short-Term Perspective	258
17.3.2	Long-Term Perspective	260
17.3.2.1	Third Wave	260
17.3.2.2	Harms of AI Manipulation: Creation of Artificial Consent and Dark Patterns	261
17.3.2.3	Consumer as Celebrity: Image Rights	262
17.4	Governance of AI Comparative Observations: American and European	265
17.4.1	Current Legal Rules	265
17.4.1.1	AI Tools for Lawyers	265
17.4.1.2	AI Tools for Non-lawyers	267
17.4.2	Data Dependence of Algorithms	269
17.4.3	New Regulation of AI	270
17.5	Conclusion	272

18	Decision-Making by AI in Consumer Law Adjudication	273
18.1	Introduction	273
18.1.1	Robojudges as Savior of the Judiciary and Litigants?	275
18.1.2	AI in Judicial Decision-Making: Threat to Fundamental Rights and Ethical Standards?	278
18.1.3	A Roadmap to Robojudges	280
18.2	Robojudges: Human-in-the-Loop versus Human-out-of-the-Loop	280
18.3	Use of Robojudges Assisting Judges in the Light of Rights to a Fair Trial	282
18.4	The Possible Application of Robojudges in the Context of the EU Air Passenger Rights Regulation No. 261/2004	285
18.5	AI Assistant Systems: Reducing Workload of Courts and improving Access to Justice	287
18.6	Conclusion	288
19	Governance, AI and Consumers: Looking Forward	289
19.1	Introduction	289
19.2	Contract and Regulations	291
19.2.1	Contracts and Contract Law	291
19.2.2	Connecting Contract Law Principles to New Technologies	292
19.2.2.1	Problem of the Gap	293
19.2.2.2	Judicial Responses	294
19.2.2.3	Underlying Drivers	294
19.2.3	The Turn to Regulation	296
19.3	Range and Nature of Human Interests	298
19.3.1	Dimensions of Breadth and Depth	298
19.3.2	'Layering' of Human Interests	299
19.4	Institutional Design	302
19.4.1	Fitness for Purpose	302
19.4.2	Fit to Govern Using Smart Tools	304
19.5	Concluding Remarks	306