

Contents

1	Toward an Archaeology of Food and Warfare	1
	Gregory D. Wilson and Amber M. VanDerwarker
2	War and the Food Quest in Small-Scale Societies: Settlement-Pattern Formation in Contact-Era New Guinea.	13
	Paul Roscoe
3	Food, Fighting, and Fortifications in Pre-European New Zealand: Beyond the Ecological Model of Maori Warfare	41
	Mark W. Allen
4	The Role of Food Production in Incipient Warfare in Protohistoric Timor Leste	61
	Peter Lape
5	War, Food, and Structural Violence in the Mississippian Central Illinois Valley	75
	Amber M. VanDerwarker and Gregory D. Wilson
6	Cycles of Subsistence Stress, Warfare, and Population Movement in the Northern San Juan	107
	Kristin A. Kuckelman
7	Burning the Corn: Subsistence and Destruction in Ancestral Pueblo Conflict	133
	James E. Snead
8	Aztec Logistics and the Unanticipated Consequences of Empire. . . .	149
	Ross Hassig

9	War and Food Production at the Postclassic Maya City of Mayapán . . .	161
	Douglas J. Kennett, Marilyn A. Masson, Stanley Serafin, Brendan J. Culleton and Carlos Peraza Lope
10	Patterns of Violence and Diet Among Children During a Time of Imperial Decline and Climate Change in the Ancient Peruvian Andes	193
	Tiffany A. Tung, Melanie Miller, Larisa DeSantis, Emily A. Sharp and Jasmine Kelly
11	Trauma, Nutrition, and Malnutrition in the Andean Highlands During Peru's Dark Age (1000–1250 C.E.)	229
	Danielle S. Kurin
12	Managing Mayhem: Conflict, Environment, and Subsistence in the Andean Late Intermediate Period, Puno, Peru	259
	BrieAnna S. Langlie and Elizabeth N. Arkush
13	Food for War, War for Food, and War on Food	291
	Lawrence H. Keeley
	Index.	303