

Contents

List of figures and tables	vii
Glossary	ix
Acknowledgements	xiii
How to use this book	xiv
PART I Preparing the ground	1
1 Introduction	3
Being proud of your dissertation	4
Scope and terminology	5
What is qualitative research?	6
What is desk-based research?	7
Why do desk-based research?	9
Advantages and disadvantages of desk-based research	10
The Research Triangle	11
The Metaphorical Tent	13
Summary	16
Further reading	16
2 Choosing a topic	17
What is research?	17
The importance of identifying a topic	19
Finding a suitable topic	20
Where will I get my data from?	22
The size, scope and focus of your project	23
How to narrow down the focus of a desk-based project	24
The Metaphorical Tent	25
Summary	25
Further reading	25
3 Keeping a research journal	27
What is criticality and why is it important?	27
What is a research journal?	29
Why keep a research journal?	30
What does a research journal look like?	33
More key terms	34
The Integrated Reflective Research Cycle	35
Summary	37
Further reading	37

4	Writing a strong research proposal	39
	The purpose of a research proposal	39
	What does a research proposal look like?	41
	The elements of a research proposal	43
	What makes a strong proposal?	47
	Tools for writing a research proposal	48
	Summary	50
	Further reading	50
PART II	Assembling the structure	51
5	The importance of your research question	53
	Why is a research question so important?	53
	How to move from a topic to a research question	54
	What makes a good research question?	56
	How do you write a good research question?	58
	Criteria for assessing a research question	59
	Can a research question be changed?	60
	A final word about your research question	61
	Summary	62
	Further reading	62
6	Context, background and introduction	63
	What does a whole dissertation look like?	63
	What does an introduction to a dissertation look like?	66
	Motivation	67
	Rationale	67
	Background and context	68
	Relevance	68
	Your research question	69
	Summary of what comes next	70
	Summary	70
	Further reading	70
7	Selecting high-quality data resources	71
	How to use the internet to find data resources	73
	Written	73
	Visual	79
	Audio	81
	The challenges of deciding which data resources to use	82
	How to identify appropriate, high-quality data	83
	Triangulation	86
	Sample size	87
	Summary	87
	Further reading	88

8	Literature review	89
	The role and purpose of a literature review	89
	The difference between a literature review as a whole dissertation and a literature review as part of a dissertation	91
	Steps involved in a literature review	92
	Characteristics of a strong literature review	95
	What is the difference between analysis, evaluation, description and synthesis?	98
	Finding those 'peachy' quotes	100
	Some practical tips for carrying out a literature review	100
	What makes a strong reference list?	101
	Summary	102
	Further reading	102
9	Desk-based methodologies	103
	What do we mean by the term methodology?	103
	Epistemology	106
	Ontology	109
	Subjectivism and objectivism	109
	Validity, reliability and generalisability	111
	How to write a strong methodology section in a dissertation	112
	Understanding methodology using a hierarchy of objectives	113
	Summary	116
	Further reading	116
10	Ethics	117
	Ethics in research	118
	Some key ethical principles for research	120
	Four key ethical principles in desk-based research	121
	Self-care in research	125
	Summary	126
	Further reading	126
11	Data analysis and techniques	127
	Inductive and deductive reasoning	129
	Four common techniques of data analysis in qualitative research	130
	How to select the most appropriate way to analyse your data	137
	Some possible analytical tools	138
	Back to literature	138
	Summary	139
	Further reading	139
12	Writing conclusions and recommendations	141
	How to write strong conclusions and recommendations	141
	Using criteria to write a strong critical evaluation of your study	143
	Sam, Rajesh and Emma's findings	144

Writing a good abstract	147
Finalising a good title	148
Summary	149
Further reading	149
PART III Keeping your tent stable and secure	151
13 Getting the support you need	153
The role of supervision	153
How to get the most from supervision	156
How to use feedback to good effect	158
The role of a critical friend	160
The value of a study group	161
Accessing other types of support	162
Getting the support of others to help you to manage stress	163
Summary	164
Further reading	164
14 Managing desk-based research	165
Planning your project	166
Goal setting	170
Effective time management	171
Dealing with difficulties to build resilience	173
Practical aspects of project management	173
Reassessing your motivation	175
Some general strategies for managing stress	179
Graduation day!	180
Summary	181
Further reading	181
References	183
Index	191