

Contents

Acknowledgments	vii
Contributors	viii
Introduction	ix
1. The moral clout of reasonable beliefs HOLLY M. SMITH	I
2. Kantian constructivism as normative ethics THOMAS E. HILL, JR.	26
3. Treating consenting adults merely as means SAMUEL J. KERSTEIN	51
4. Two levels of moral thinking DANIEL STAR	75
5. In defense of consequentializing JAMIE DREIER	97
6. Consequentialism and moral rationalism DOUGLAS W. PORTMORE	120
7. Cordelia's bond and indirect consequentialism NICK ZANGWILL	143
8. You don't have to do what's best! A problem for consequentialists and other teleologists S. ANDREW SCHROEDER	166
9. Supererogation, inside and out: Toward an adequate scheme for common-sense morality PAUL MCNAMARA	202
10. The paradox of deontology, revisited ULRIKE HEUER	236

- II. Normative ethics, conversion, and pictures
as tools of moral persuasion 268
SARAH MCGRATH
12. Two cheers for virtue: or, might virtue be habit forming? 295
PETER RAILTON

Index

331