

Contents

List of Illustrations	ix
Contributors	xiii
Acknowledgments	xvii
Transformative Jars: An Introduction Anna Grasskamp and Anne Gerritsen	1
Part 1 Transformative Matters: Ceramic Vessels, Chemistry, and Socio-Economic Change
1 Dreams of Transformation: A Fourteenth-Century Flask from Cizhou Anne Gerritsen	13
2 Jars that Cheered: Alcohol and Stoneware Containers in Java before 1500 CE Jiří Jákl	37
Part 2 Transformative Spaces: Ceramic Vessels and Asian Locations
3 Siamese Jars and their Significance in Southeast Asian Trade from the Fourteenth to the Eighteenth Century Atthasit Sukkham	63
4 Weaving Networks: Production and Exchange of Ceramic Jars in South China and Vietnam from the Fourteenth to the Sixteenth Century Sharon Wai-yee Wong	94
Part 3 Transcultural Enclosures: Containers and their Contents in Global Context
5 For Oil, Date Syrup, and the Tomb of a Chinese Queen: The Reciprocal Trade in Chinese and West Asian Jars in the Late Tang/Early Abbasid Period Eva Ströber	119
6 Translocation and Transformation: The Lives of Chinese Fishbowls in the Early Modern Period Wen-Ting Wu	147

Part 4	Transformative Containers: Individual Jars and Modes of Agency
7	The Jars Have Ears: Circulation and Proliferation of Chinese Prototype Container Jars and their Offspring in Asia Louise Allison Cort	179
8	Dragons in Flux: A Changing Relationship between People and Jars in the Kelabit Highlands, Borneo, from the Nineteenth to the Twenty-First Century Borbala Nyiri	204
9	Jar Interventions: Ceramic Containers as Disobedient Objects in Contemporary Asian Art Sooyoung Leam and Anna Grasskamp	232
	Concluding Thoughts on Transformative Jars: Asian Ceramic Vessels as Transcultural Enclosures Anne Gerritsen and Anna Grasskamp	258
	Index	263